

Enemy Sanctuaries: A Diplomatic or Military Solution?

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say Communist troops in their battle against American and allied forces in South Vietnam.

The use of these sanctuaries is viewed in Washington as a matter of major military importance.

President Johnson's advisers are reported split on whether the United States should use "hot pursuit" and search-and-destroy tactics against the enemy hideouts beyond the South Vietnamese borders.

Some State Department and other civilian officials say privately they believe the cost would be too high in terms of worldwide political reaction, but military men say the problem will have to be met.

The dominant Washington view at the moment appears to be that if Secretary of State Dean Rusk cannot get a diplomatic solution—at a minimum some understanding with the government of Prince Norodom Sihanouk in Cambodia—President Johnson will have to decide in the first months of the new year what U.S. military action may be taken.

This issue, which carries the risk of expanding the war in Southeast Asia in 1968, is one of various unpredictable possibilities of the new year. Another is the outlook for peace—or at least peace talks.

On this question U.S. officials have been intrigued for several weeks by intelligence reports coming out of an area of South Vietnam, reportedly south of Saigon, that the Communists have been telling villagers the fighting would end in February.

But a check of authorities here brings information that the report has come from only one area of South Vietnam and it is therefore not taken too seriously. It has not figured in captured documents or prisoner-of-war information, as has the Communist "fight and negotiate" theory and discussion of forming a coalition government in South Vietnam with both Communist and non-Communist elements.

Those two topics have received extensive attention on the Communist side and therefore have impressed U.S. policymakers as reliable indicators of what the enemy leadership may try to do.

The sanctuary issue has dominated the diplomatic front of the war for the past 10 days as the argument developed in the U.S. government over what should be done about it.

The United States has tried during December to get the Cambodian government to agree to strengthen an international control commission as a means of guarding the borders against crossovers by Communist troops. Prince Sihanouk in a note late last week rejected the U.S. approach and strongly denounced the U.S. role in Southeast Asia.

The United States declared its intention to persist in seeking a diplomatic solution and officials disclosed Thursday efforts are being made to get help from numerous other nations, including the Soviet Union, to solve the Cambodian problem.

Washington authorities were also reportedly interested in reports that despite his tough line in the note to the United States, Sihanouk might be willing to concede that his small army could not guard the borders—and that if U.S. forces chased Communist units over the borders in remote jungle areas there was nothing he could do to stop it.

The State Department also had reports through unofficial channels that Sihanouk would be prepared to receive an emissary from President Johnson to talk over the situation.

Officials said in the nature of hit-and-run, guerrilla-type jungle warfare it is impossible to know accurately what enemy troops do when not in combat. This makes a count of sanctuary users virtually impossible.

When Gen. William C. Westmoreland consulted with President Johnson on this issue last month, he reportedly estimated that in October and November in the Kontum border area of the Central Highlands of Vietnam, 10,000 out of 15,000 North Vietnamese troops had crossed into South Vietnam from Cambodia.

Several battles, Dak To and Loc Ninh, were fought in that area and then, by U.S. estimate, upwards of 10,000 enemy troops crossed into Cambodia for rest and recreation, regrouping and resupply. The countries neighboring South Vietnam—Cambodia and Laos—are involved in Communist military operations in three ways, administration officials said.

Their jungles hide infiltration routes by which thousands of Communist fighters and tons of supplies move every month into South Vietnam. The jungles also provide space for supply bases and hideaways where the troops can rest and be reorganized with security from attack.

The third use of the border areas is for sanctuary to prepare for battle or to flee from battle when the pressure becomes too great.

No Sexual Revolution In Country

NEW YORK (AP) — scientists today presented findings from new studies of human sexual behavior, listing among general conclusions:

—There has been "no sexual revolution" strictly speaking, rather more a continuation of long existing trends.

—College coeds continue to equate their first sexual intercourse with love, whereas men continue to be opportunistic.

—There is a definite trend, especially among young women, for the first sexual intercourse to be a pleasurable event.

—Newer contraceptive devices do NOT seem to have prompted any rise in the percentage of women having intercourse before marriage.

—Use of birth control devices doesn't seem to lead to increased sexual activity so much as to increased enjoyment.

Dr. Paul H. Gebhard, director of the Institute for Sex Research at Indiana University founded by the late Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey, described first results from a 1967 survey among nearly 1,200 men and women, in colleges across the nation, compared with findings from similar questioning of about as many college students in the 1940's and early 1950's—a generation or nearly so ago.

So far, he said, "all this sounds like a continuation of the trend toward sexual equality with the female being regarded both by males and by herself as less a sexual object to be exploited, and more as a fellow human with her own needs, expectations, and rights."

The 1967 study was conducted under direction of Dr. William Simon of the Institute at Bloomington, Ind.

Compared with a generation ago, Dr. Gebhard said, "It is clear that the enormous difference between how males and females view their initial partner has changed very little. In brief, females surrender their virginity to males they love, whereas males are much less emotionally involved."

For college coeds now at their first experience, "love was involved in 70 to 90 per cent of cases"—similar to the earlier findings.

Among males, 11 to 14 per cent in the new study said they first had intercourse with girls they intended to marry. This compared with only one to five per cent—in various college years—who so reported in the earlier surveys.

Young men now rarely have their first experience with prostitutes—only two to seven per cent in the new study compared with 20 to 25 per cent previously.

Bulletin

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Two judges of a three-member federal court panel today ruled invalid the 1967 Missouri Congressional reapportionment act.

Judges John W. Oliver and William R. Collinson joined in striking down the law passed by the 1967 General Assembly dividing the state into 10 new districts.

Judge M. C. Matthes, 8th Circuit Court of Appeals, the third member of the panel, dissented.

Changeover In Stamp Machines

With change in the price of stamps effective Jan. 7, 1968, the only stamp machine in the Sedalia Post Office will be undergoing change to distribute the new six cent stamp instead of the old five cent variety.

But when is not exactly definite, according to Assistant Postmaster Lynford Hackler of the Sedalia branch. Hackler said the change will be made by the maintenance department in Kansas City as soon as possible. But until then, the machine will continue to put out the old stamps.

Hackler also said that the new stamps are now available at the window in the post office.

The machines in various stores around town will have to be changed eventually to "give the public what they want," Hackler said, "but the Post Office has no jurisdiction over these machines." The machine in the post office disburse stamps at face value but the ones in the stores allow for a margin of profit.

The only other machine to be changed that comes under the Sedalia Post Office is at Whiteman Air Force Base and according to Hackler that machine will also be changed by the maintenance department in Kansas City.

Two Girls In Picture Identified

On page 11 of Thursday's Democrat and Friday morning's Capital there was a picture of the winning float in a clean up-paint up parade held in the early twenties. Riding on the float were two little girls who were unknown at the time of publication.

But at 7 a.m. Friday morning the office telephone rang and Shirley Childs, 1010 West Fourth, called and identified the two girls as Virginia and Mary Dugan.

According to Mary Dugan, who is now Mary Hilton, 506 West Third, a telephone operator for Southwestern Bell in Sedalia, the picture was taken in 1920 or 1922, just which year is indefinite. At the time Mary Dugan was either ten or 12, depending on which year the picture was taken, and her sister, Virginia Dugan, who is now Virginia Goode, 1205 South Kentucky, a secretary to the principal at Smith-Cotton High School, was two years younger.

As of press time Friday no one had identified any of the plumbars in the picture on page 16 of the same issue. Any information pertaining to the people in the picture should be called into the Democrat-Capital at TA 6-1000 in Sedalia, Sedalia.

Humphreys Off To Africa

Vice President and Mrs. Humphrey waved farewell as they left Friday from Andrews AFB, Maryland, on a nine-country African good-will trip to show America's commitment to "peaceful development and human opportunity." One stop on the tour will be in Liberia, where the Humphreys will head the U.S. delegation attending the inauguration of President William Tubman, a staunch American friend. (UPI)

Whiteman, Jazz King, Dies at 76

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Famed bandleader Paul Whiteman, the "King of Jazz," died today apparently of a heart attack. He was 76.

The musician was rushed to Doylestown Hospital about 4:30 a.m. after he was stricken in his home near this Bucks County town 25 miles northeast of Philadelphia.

Whiteman's physician, Dr. D. Kenneth Leiby, said death was due to an acute coronary attack. He died about 20 minutes after being admitted to the hospital.

Paul Whiteman

Whiteman apparently had been in good health until stricken, taking an active part in the civic and cultural life of New Hope. He served as an honorary officer of art shows and theatrical events.

Whiteman was considered the dean of modern American music and the man who first combined classical music with jazz. He commissioned George Gershwin to compose "Rhapsody in Blue" and conducted it in 1924 in the first jazz concert ever given. He also introduced Ferde Grofe's "Grand Canyon Suite." His recording of "Three o'Clock in the Morning" sold 3 million copies.

Whiteman, known to his associates as "Pops," directed such musical stars as Bing Crosby, Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, Morton Downey and Benny Goodman when his band was the most popular in the (See WHITEMAN, Page 4.)

Big Job for Hubert In Visit to Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey flew off today on a 13-day visit to Africa promising to "renew President Johnson's commitment to the ultimate defeat in Africa as well as in our own country of poverty, ignorance, malnutrition and disease."

The vice president, in a speech just before his takeoff from Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington, said he hoped to return from his nine-nation tour with a better understanding of Africa and to leave behind "a better understanding of America."

Humphrey, accompanied by his wife is due to return Jan. 10. The vice president will head the American delegation at the inauguration of President William Tubman of Liberia Jan. 1 and 2. Other members of the inaugural delegation traveling with Humphrey are Justice Thurgood Marshall of the Supreme Court and Edgar Bronfman, New York business executive.

"We intend to make clear America's commitment in Africa as in our own country to peaceful development and human opportunity," Humphrey said in his statement.

Humphrey starts the tour in Abidjan, capital of the Ivory Coast. In addition to the Ivory Coast and Liberia, the vice president will visit Ghana, Congo, Zambia, Ethiopia, Somali, Kenya and Tunisia.

Humphrey aides have declined to say what if any commitments the vice president will make on his trip.

However, the Ivory Coast is interested in a multimillion-dollar loan to help build a hydroelectric project on the Bandama Blanc River.

Administration officials listed these purposes of Humphrey's tour:

—To demonstrate, through personal visits by the second highest American official, the interest of the United States in the African countries and their development.

—To meet personally with African leaders, learn from them their interests and tell them about America's.

—To assess first hand the problems and opportunities for nation-building in Africa, including the prospects for regional economic development.

—To see what the officials termed the exciting developments in economic cooperation among East African countries.

Nine Children Die In Canadian Blaze

MONT LAURIER, Que. (AP) —Fire swept the home of a couple with 18 children early today. Nine children perished while the others escaped with their parents by jumping from windows of the two-story house into a foot of snow.

Police said the fire broke out at 12:30 a.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Girouard.

New Year's Baby Contest Announced By Merchants

The first baby born in Pettis County in 1968 will be the lucky winner of 13 gifts offered by Sedalia merchants. The gifts range from a $10 savings account at a local bank to a pair of soft-soled shoes for baby's first steps.

To enter the contest, have your doctor or hospital call the Democrat-Capital office and give the exact time and place of your baby's birth, his or her weight and name and the name and address of the parents within 48 hours after the birth of the child.

The contest is limited to babies born in Pettis County and the parents must be residents of the county.

Birth reports should be made to the First Baby Contest Editor, at the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, Sedalia, Mo., by mail or telephone.

To be eligible for the prizes it is necessary for one of the parents to stop in at the Democrat-Capital advertising department office.

Watch the Monday afternoon Democrat or the Tuesday morning Capital for a picture of the first born 1968 baby and his mother.

A list of the prizes and the participating merchants are on page 12 of today's Democrat-Capital.

Billboard Permits To Be Needed

Owners of billboards alongside Missouri's major highways in unzoned areas must obtain a permit after Jan. 1, Chief Engineer Marvin J. Snider of the Missouri State Highway Commission has announced.

Snider announced that forms for obtaining the permits were available at department district offices throughout the state. The permits are required for billboards within 660 feet of an interstate or primary highway in an unzoned area.

Permits are not required for "on-premise" signs, those erected where the business which the sign advertises is conducted.

The permits are among the provisions of Missouri's new billboard law passed this year by the 73rd General Assembly, Snider pointed out.

The law requires a fee of $2.50 for each sign of 300 square feet or less and $5 for those larger than 300 square feet. The fees, to be paid yearly, go into the state's general revenue fund, Snider explained.

He also pointed out that after Jan. 1 it will be unlawful to maintain signs which are not in good repair, which are not securely fastened to a substantial structure, or which imitate or resemble any official traffic sign or signal.

The law also prohibits any revolving or rotating flashing lights and any signs on trees, rocks or other natural features. All lighted billboards must be shielded to prevent the light from being directed onto any part of the roadways, Snider said.

The permit application forms, Snider said, may be obtained from and returned to the department's district office for the county where the sign is located. The form and fee must be submitted for each sign.

Department district offices: District 1, St. Joseph; District 2, Macon; District 3, Hannibal; District 4, Kansas City; District 5, Jefferson City; District 6, Kirkswood; District 7, Joplin; District 8, Springfield; District 9, Willow Springs; and District 10, Sikeston.

More Work For MoPac Likely Here

Plans to phase out the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad Oakland Shops during 1968 were outlined in Danville, Ill., this month, according to a news story in the Commercial-News of that city, following a meeting of railroad officials with employee representatives.

US Marines Hit Enemy In Sweep

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines swept today through two fortified villages on coastal lowlands 20 miles south of Da Nang, where a helicopter assault had led them into a heavy firefight with about 500 Communist troops.

Reports from the field said enemy resistance was light, a marked departure from the rain of fire that marked the Leathernecks' landing in a muddy rice paddy there Thursday. These accounts said 17 Marines and 37 of the enemy were killed that day. Thirty Marines were wounded.

American authorities announced two U.S. Air Force Canberra bombers mistakenly strafed a company of South Vietnamese irregulars locked in a jungle fight with Viet Cong Thursday, killing 4 and wounding 32 and 2 American advisers. U.S. Command said the South

The phase-out will follow negotiations between unions and the railroad, the company said.

Kenneth E. Osgood, general chairman of electrical craft workers in Danville, said he understands work now done in Danville would be moved to Sedalia and DeSoto in Missouri, North Little Rock, Ark., and the Yard Center at Chicago. Construction of the latter site is expected to be finished early in 1968.

Harry Hammer, St. Louis public relations officer for the Missouri Pacific Railroad, said today no decisions had been made on the Danville situation with respect to Sedalia, but "expanded freight car work" is anticipated for the Sedalia shops. Whether this was a result of the Danville phase-out was not confirmed.

Hammer added the Sedalia shops are widely diversified and a stable labor force is anticipated. This was in response to speculation that the local shops might close because Missouri Pacific is discontinuing two passenger trains here.

"Even if we dropped all passenger service," Hammer emphasized, "the expanded freight car work in Sedalia would probably mean more work, not less."

The Danville newspaper's story, in part, reports:

"Employees displaced in Danville will be offered jobs at

Try to Place Value On U.S. Housewife

NEW YORK (AP) — How much, in dollars and cents, is the American housewife really worth?

The Agriculture Department is considering trying to find out in hopes of determining whether working wives really mean profit for the family coffers. The housewives have their own ideas—and they vary widely.

"I'd be worth about $500 a week," said one woman. "About $50 weekly," estimated another. "I think it's silly to even try to put a value on a housewife," scoffed a third.

Most of the women responding to an Associated Press survey estimated a housewife's value on the basis of what it would cost to hire an outsider to perform her chores. "A maid for eight hours costs about $10 or more," said Mrs. Hugh Savage of Kansas City, Mo., the mother of two. "And you should add $6 for the extras," including meal planning, clothes buying, serving as hostess and carrying out community obligations, she said.

Mrs. Albert Jensen of Chicago, the mother of two, who said her husband told her she was worth $1,000 a month, figured it would cost "about $600 a month" to hire a nurse for their son. In addition, she said, her husband would have to pay someone for the cooking, cleaning and laundry.

Several years ago, the Chase Manhattan Bank figured that at the going rates for all the jobs under the title "housewife," the average woman should get $159.34 a week. That included such estimates as 3.3 hours of food shopping a week at $1.50 an hour and 13.1 hours of cooking a week at $2.50 an hour.

Mrs. William Pichler, 45, of Miami, the mother of two, said "just off the top of my head I'd say over $50," then added, "you'd better make that about $150 a week."

Mrs. Pichler, a registered nurse before her marriage, said she would prefer to hold an outside job. "It was far more gratifying," she said.

Mrs. Rita Kellard of Brooklyn, the mother of three, also would prefer to hold an outside job, but she said it was more gratifying to stay home.

"You don't get any salary at home," said Mrs. Kellard, who felt she was worth "at least $3 an hour" for a 12-hour day, seven days a week. "But to see your children happy is more rewarding. You never see a boss happy."

A much more modest monetary appraisal came from Mrs. Justine Paul, 25, of Santa Monica, Calif., a bride of less than one year. "I just don't do a whole lot around the house," said Mrs. Paul, explaining she thought she would be worth about $30 a week.

A television interviewer before her marriage, Mrs. Paul said she'd prefer not to work. "I'd rather be taken care of," she said.

But Buoyant

Former Priest Finds New Life Difficult

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Their new life has its difficulties. They're going it alone, so to speak, unattached to any organized church. But they're dedicated to advancing the cause of Christ. And they're happy.

"Buoyant," said Charles Davis, once a world-renowned Roman Catholic theologian, and now a professor of religion outside any denomination. "I feel as if I've rejoined the human race."

His gently cheerful wife, Florence, added, "We're much more aware of the center of living, and very peaceful, very happy. We're united in our ideas and goals."

Yet they admit the problems, the necessity of reconstructing work and relationships in a new context, the round of explanations to questioners, the anomalies of corporate worshiping without formal belonging.

"We're quite glad to worship where Christians meet and where we're welcome," Davis said. They do so occasionally. "But we don't want to be parasites, sharing a congregation's worship without sharing the responsibilities of membership."

So as "unattached Christians," they don't participate regularly in any one group, but alternately, with a variety of them, as circumstances suggest.

"A lot is happening in Christian worship to make its forms more appropriate to present times," Davis said in an interview. "We're in a transitional period. As the structures become more fluid, there will be more ways for participation."

The changes, he predicted, would bring many outsiders, disenchanting with the old pattern, back into Christian activity.

Davis, 44, a priest for 20 years, was England's foremost Roman Catholic theologian until a year ago when he quit the clergy, left the Church, and married Florence Henderson, of Farmingdale, N.Y., a lay theologian herself, until then a Catholic, and a friend of four years.

His action stunned the Christian world, not only Roman Catholics but also Protestants, who had come to regard Davis as one of the top mediating voices in efforts at renewal and reconciliation of divided Christendom.

He is now a visiting professor of religious studies at the University of Alberta, Edmonton, Canada, and was in New York in connection with his new book, "A Question of Conscience," published by Harper & Row.

It is his full-dress answer to the question, "Why?"

And his main target is the church organizational system and uses of authority which, he says, stifle Christian initiative, hinder love, twist truth and seek more to serve its institutional position than the gospel.

It makes "itself an end not a means," he says, and is concerned "for authority at the expense of truth." He says the organized church has ceased "to be a credible embodiment of Christian faith, hope and love."

To stay honest with himself, he says, he had to get out.

He emphasizes that his decision was not caused by his desire to marry, adding that he still regards celibacy "as a meaningful vocation."

The Pastor's Comment

By Ronald E. Wilson
Church of the Nazarene

We are living in a world of change. Some among us can remember when the automobile was a near novelty. Today super-sonic jets zoom across our skies at speeds that nearly escape our comprehension. Orbiting satellites are the order of the day.

I have a friend who works closely with new developments in computer operation. For weeks he worked hard to master the complicated "language" of the newest machine. To his utter dismay, this machine was "on the way out" by the time he had attained a working grasp of its operations.

With such changes one begins to wonder if there is anything that will not change. What can I be sure of? What can I count on? What can I anchor too? Where is real changeless security? It is the affirmation of the Christian faith that there are certain unchangeables in this changing world of ours.

God's Word does not change. It's authority and integrity are beyond challenge. When the skeptic has ceased his attack and the humanist has completed his "scholarly" effort at destruction, God's Word will stand. The Bible will ever stand as a lighthouse guiding the sincere seeker through the channel that leads to life eternal. The Bible is inspired, II Peter 1:21, given of God, II Tim. 3:16-17. It will not change.

God Himself is changeless: "I am the Lord, I change not." God, who has been forever, shall ever remain unchanging. Christ is unchangeable. Hebrews 13:8 declares "Jesus Christ the same yesterday, today, and forever."

Sin, man's oldest enemy, has not changed. Though the word be disguised in more respectable terms, sin exists as ever. All affected by sin.

God's plan for the sin problem is the same. Salvation through the forgiving Grace of God is the only solution. Jesus Christ, our high priest, made one sacrifice sufficient for all time for sin. Sinful man must recognize his need of salvation. He must turn from his sin in repentance. He must turn to Christ, in faith, to receive forgiveness and new life in Him. Then the sinner becomes a "new creation," a son of God by faith through Grace, II Corinthians 5:17. Assurance is given to him that he has become a child of God, Romans 8:16.

In the quicksand of sin, blighted man's only hope is to appeal to these unchangeables. God's Word is steadfast. God himself is ever the same. Jesus Christ, our only hope, cannot fail. Genuine salvation yielding a "know so" testimony is the same as in centuries past.

Augustine floundered hopelessly in the mire of sin seeking satisfaction. Not until his conversion did he find it. From that point on Augustine lifted his powerful voice as a champion of the "faith once delivered unto the saints."

Martin Luther failed to find peace though he kept strictly the outward demands of his order. All was changed for Luther when he yielded and learned "the just shall live by faith."

John Wesley was a fruitless and powerless preacher until at Aldersgate his "heart was strangely warmed." From that point in his life Wesley was a

ANOTHER YEAR IS GONE

We are about to close out another year, and for many it has been an important one. A lot of people decided to become Christians this year and a lot more grew into stronger and better Christians.

Unfortunately, many more put off this decision all year long. If you are one of these, you should remember that God has not promised us a definite length of time here on earth. But he has told us that we cannot get to heaven without obeying his rules.

Contract With GM Ratified

DETROIT (AP)—Ratification of a new three-year national contract covering some 380,000 workers at General Motors Corp. was announced today by the United Auto Workers Union.

The announcement was made by Leonard Woodcock, UAW vice president and director of the union's GM department.

Skilled workers were reported to have approved the agreement by about 3½-to-1, while production employees ratified it 5-to-1, Woodcock said. Under union rules, the pact had to be approved by both groups before going into effect.

Woodcock notified 114 of the UAW's GM locals to step up their own local negotiations with plant level management. The other 20 GM locals have settled already.

In a telegram to the locals, Woodcock warned that any strikes, work stoppages or curtailment of production must be authorized in advance by UAW headquarters.

The GM settlement parallels agreements reached earlier at Ford and Chrysler.

The agreement provides for an average increase of $1 an hour in wages and fringe benefits over the three-year span of the contract. Workers were receiving an average of $4.70 an hour.

The increases in the contract will boost labor costs for the company about six per cent a year.

Meanwhile, General Motors became the first U.S. automaker Thursday to announce an auto price increase—$22 on most models — to cover the cost of front-seat shoulder harnesses, now required by federal law.

country between World War I and World War II.

He remained devoted to all kinds of music to the very end. "I don't think you have to live in one groove all the time," he said recently. "If it's well done, no matter what kind it is."

One of the highlights of Whiteman's career came last fall when residents of New Hope, the quaint Bucks County village 25 miles northeast of Philadelphia on the Delaware River, where he lived in semiretirement, honored him for his half century in jazz.

He named his retirement home "Coda" explaining a coda was the last eight bars.

Whiteman was born in Denver, Colo., and played first viola in the Denver Symphony in his teens. He formed his first orchestra shortly after World War I and toured the United States and Europe.

In the 1930s, Whiteman became a popular conductor on radio programs. In 1943 he was musical director of the Blue Network, which later became the American Broadcasting Co.

Vietnamese force was battling a Viet Cong force in the jungled coastlands of Binh Thuan Province about 125 miles northeast of Saigon.

The B57 Canberras were called in to give supporting fire and dipped down with blazing 20mm cannon and 50-caliber machine guns. The ground action against the Viet Cong apparently was broken off as the shattered South Vietnamese unit, called a civilian irregular defense group, pulled back with its casualties.

The strafing run took place in midafternoon and the weather was relatively clear, the U.S. Command said. An investigation was ordered by the commander of the U.S. 7th Air Force Gen. William Momyer and Air Force officers were sent to the scene.

The mistaken strafing came on a day of scattered ground actions up and down the nation. They ranged from pitched battles in the coastal lowlands around Da Nang to clashes in the Mekong Delta where U.S. Navy patrol boats fought Viet Cong infantrymen.

One Communist gunner in the delta put a small patrol boat out of action with a recoilless rifle shot that wounded all five American crewmen. Helicopters swept in to strafe the Viet Cong position, and an accompanying patrol boat pulled the stricken craft out of the battle 45 miles southwest of Saigon.

In the big delta city of My Tho about 40 miles below Saigon, Viet Cong mortarmen lobbed a barrage of 42 rounds into the compound of the provincial hospital, wounding 17 civilians and an unannounced number of South Vietnamese soldiers.

Sharp ground actions involved both South Vietnamese and American units.

Accidents

No apparent injuries resulted from a two car accident at 14th and State Fair Blvd. at 9:51 a.m. Friday. Involved in the accident were a car going north on State Fair driven by Marion Pratt, 1716 South Beacon, and another car going east on 14th driven by Ben Addington, 2411 West Third.

According to the police report the accident occurred when Addington's car turned left in front of Pratt's car. The investigating officer also indicated on the report that Pratt's car was going too fast for the existing street conditions.

A Missouri Public Service utility pole at 11th and Kentucky was knocked down following a one car accident at 10 a.m. Friday. Involved was a car being driven north on Kentucky by Raymond Bell, 1500 South Kentucky.

According to the police report the accident occurred when Bell attempted to pull his car around a truck on Kentucky and started to slide and hit the pole. The power lines attached to the pole fell on top of Bell's car and were removed by Missouri Public Service repairmen.

No one was injured according to police in a two-car accident at 24th and Grand at 7:54 a.m. Thursday.

Involved were a 1966 Chevrolet, driven north on Grand by Anna Griffith, 47, 3200 South Grand, and a 1967 Pontiac, driven west on 24 by William Jabas, 52, 224 West 24th.

Damage was to the left front of the Chevrolet and the rear of the Pontiac.

A 1964 Chevrolet, driven north on the 300 block of South Grand by Celso Cecil McClure, 1314 East 14th, struck a power pole when its driver lost control of the car on some ice. The right front of the Chevrolet was damaged. The accident occurred at 10:28 a.m. Thursday.

The intersection of Main Street and State Fair Boulevard was the scene of a two-car accident at 10:44 a.m. Thursday.

Involved were a 1962 Chevrolet, driven west on Main by Charles Mawhorter, 75, 1405 South Kentucky, and a Dodge, driven west on Main by George A. Buchholz, 64, Route 3.

Damage was to the left front of the Chevrolet and the left rear of the Dodge.

Non injuries were reported in a two-car accident at the intersection of Sixth and Harrison at 12:56 p.m. Thursday.

Involved were a 1959 Chevrolet, driven north on Harrison by Noah Robinson, 55, 506 West Johnson, and a 1953 Desoto, driven west on Sixth by Sam Gray Keith, 73, 1210 West Sixth.

Damage was to the right front of the Chevrolet and the left side of the Desoto.

Kiwanians Install New President

William W. Dugan became the 1968 president of the Sedalia Kiwanis club at installation ceremonies conducted by Lieut. Governor Richard Barry, California, Mo., at the meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

Other officers inducted were: President-elect, Roy L. Brown; Treasurer, Henry C. Salvester, and Past President James Giokaris; Directors, Adolph Gleen, Judge Henry Lamm, Robert McDonald and John St. Clair; hold-over directors, Robert Gardner, the Rev. George Sparling, John Sneed and Herbert Taylor.

Retiring directors were: Virgil Dean, Monty McQuitty, William Schien and Virgil Winge.

Invocation was by Rev. Sparling.

President Giokaris mentioned that presence at the Thursday meeting represented the completion of 25 years of perfect attendance for Past President George H. Scruton.

Preceding the installation, two new members William A. Whitson and Dr. Joe M. Bennett, were inducted by Robert Gardner with the assistance of their sponsors, the Rev. Medford Speaker and Roy Brown.

Governor Berry recognized the club's past presidents and asked them to lend their experience in supporting the new administration.

In accepting the gavel, President Dugan responding by complimenting Past President Giokaris on the activities of his administration and presented him with a lapel pin indicative of his office. In turn Giokaris presented Dugan with the President's Pin.

President Dugan announced a new club innovation by appointment of Herbert Taylor and Monty McQuitty as badge-wearing deputy sheriffs to see that each member wore his name badge or Kiwanis emblem at each meeting.

Guests were: Bruce Sparling, Dallas, with his father the Rev. Mr. Sparling; Alan Whitson, Columbia, with his father, William Whitson; Mrs. William Dugan with President Giokaris; and Garland Groom.

Edward E. Haynes, Superintendent of the Missouri State Training Center for Men, Moberly, will be the speaker at next's meeting. James Ryan and Dr. Joe Bennett will be program chairman during January.

MoPac Train Kills a Boy On a Trestle

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 15-year-old boy was struck and killed by a Missouri Pacific passenger train on a trestle as he ran to get out of the way Thursday.

Dead is James Gordon Bennett III, son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Bennett Jr. Two other boys, Bruce Williams and Charles Wass, crawled down between the rails and were not hurt.

The train was traveling 77 miles an hour when it rounded a curve and approached the trestle across Noland Road in eastern Kansas City.

The engineer, Jacob B. Salmons of Jefferson City, said he blew the whistle and applied his emergency brakes. Young Bennett, instead of dropping to a girder under the rails with his companions, began running.

His body was thrown 200 feet forward by the impact, and down a 20-foot embankment.

Missouri's Oldest Doctor Takes a Helicopter Ride

By DORIS TARYLE
The Fulton Sun-Gazette
For The Associated Press
FULTON, Mo. (AP)—To celebrate his 97th birthday, Dr. R. N. Crews, Missouri's oldest practicing physician, recently took a helicopter ride.

He observed his 95th birthday with a jet ride to New York to visit his daughter and her family.

Now in his 73rd year of medical practice, Dr. Crews has literally made the transition from horse-and-buggy days to the jet age.

The Fulton physician has made only one concession to his advancing age—he has quit making house calls in rural areas. However, he occasionally makes an exception even to this rule.

He keeps right on going where even younger men might falter. Last spring, he fractured one wrist and had to keep it in a cast for several weeks, but was not deterred from tending to the needs of his patients.

Truly the "dean" of Missouri doctors, Dr. Crews says he does not like to give advice to young men contemplating a medical career.

"A smart person does not need it and others won't take it," he quips.

Although he won't give advice to aspiring doctors, he has definite ideas on the state of medicine today.

For one thing, he regrets that the esteem of the general practitioner has dropped.

He has one patient, a man more than 65 years old whom he "brought into the world," and he still is the man's family doctor.

"There is genuine satisfaction in being a family doctor and being with people in hours of need," he explained.

To illustrate the decline of the family physician, Dr. Crews quotes figures from a medical publication: "In Boston recently all 332 seniors in three medical schools were polled on what branch of medicine they planned to enter and not one answered general practice."

Although the role of the general practitioner has changed, Dr. Crews says one thing still is the same—collecting some patients' bills.

"The television repairman is paid sometimes while the doctor bill is neglected," he said.

One of 10 children in a family from Halifax County, Va., the Fulton doctor came to Missouri with a brother, mostly out of a sense of adventure, he says.

When he bought his first car in 1911, the medical fees for house calls ranged from $1 to $3, depending on the distance.

The competition among doctors, along with low fees, kept him from buying a top or a wind-shield on his new car. He says he got pretty cold making house calls in rural areas.

When he set up his office in Williamsburg in 1896, he paid $2.50 a month for office rent; $2.50 for his horse and shelter for his buggy and $9 a month for board, room and laundry.

He moved to Fulton and began taking graduate courses at frequent intervals. He studied in Chicago, New York, Boston and St. Louis.

Practices which have helped his longevity include "keeping active, both physically and mentally, and eating plenty of protein foods along with avoidance of overweight, cigarettes and alcohol," he said.

Maintaining a sense of humor, he adds, also has helped him reach 97.

In addition, he says an all-important factor has been "faith in the present and future and in God and man."

North Carolina was first of the colonies to direct her representatives to vote for complete separation from England.

May Serve On Highway Condemnation

Attorney General Norman H. Anderson ruled today that a member of the General Assembly may be appointed condemnation commissioner in condemnation suits filed by the highway commission or a county. Anderson issued the opinion in response to inquiry by State Representative Frank Bild of St. Louis County.

The Attorney General said that Bild had asked whether "a member of the General Assembly can serve as a commissioner in a condemnation suit wherein the State Highway Commission or the county is a party without violating any state statutes or Article 3, Section 12 of the Missouri Constitution." That part of the Missouri Constitution states "... When any Senator or representative accepts any office or employment under the United States, this state or any municipality thereof, his office shall thereby be vacated and he shall thereafter perform no duty and receive no salary as senator or representative."

Defectors in Sweden

Four American sailors who defected from the U.S. aircraft carrier Intrepid as a protest against the Vietnam war, were interviewed on arrival in Stockholm Friday. They hope to find "political asylum" in neutral Sweden and are looking forward to getting jobs and starting a newspaper to continue their denunciation of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Deserters From Navy In Sweden

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The Swedish government is considering what to do with four young U.S. Navy deserters who jumped ship in Japan to protest American involvement in the Vietnam war and came to Sweden from Moscow seeking asylum.

Informants indicated that the four probably would be accepted by Sweden, but there was a chance they might be returned to Moscow.

Police took the bearded quartet to a police station to check their papers as soon as they stepped from a Scandinavian airliner early today.

Authorities said the youths left Moscow without applying for visas. They are Richard D. Bailey, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla.; John M. Barilla, 20, of Catonsville, Md.; Craig W. Anderson, 20, of San Jose, Calif.; and Michael A. Linder, 19, of Mount Pocono, Pa.

"They have put us in a rather unusual situation," said one official. "Usually political refugees claim they have been subjected to persecution in the country they fled from. But as far as we know, the Americans have been treated well in the Soviet Union."

The young Americans quit the aircraft carrier Intrepid in Yokosuka, Japan, in October when it was there on leave from Vietnam duty. Japanese pacifists smuggled them out of the country, and they arrived in Moscow early in November. They criticized U.S. actions in Vietnam in appearances on Soviet television and with the Soviet press, but Western newsmen in Moscow were not allowed to interview them.

A member of the diplomatic colony in Moscow who encountered the sailors by chance said they were "fed up with Russia" and were anxious to reach Sweden.

The Swedish Committee for Vietnam, which opposes American participation in the war, said the sailors had appealed for help and that temporary housing had been arranged for them with Swedish families.

Expanded War Real Threat

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A threat of big-power conflict in Southeast Asia seems to be growing, and if it gets more serious it could bring about a new international conference.

Soviet and Red Chinese statements predict escalation of the Vietnam war through U.S. invasion of Laos and Cambodia, as if reflecting fear this will happen. The United States deplores use of Cambodia by the Viet Cong as sanctuary from American pursuit. There are reports of a Communist buildup and increased activity in Laos.

All this is familiar and ominous.

The imminence of a big-power showdown had much to do with the convocation of an international conference five years ago on the Laotian situation. It could happen again, perhaps this time including talks on the Vietnam struggle.

The record indicates that the Laotian situation in the early 60s was so dangerous that a conference was the only safe way out. The alternative might have been a confrontation and even war among the big powers. A similar situation seems to be building up now.

Though overshadowed by the magnitude of the Vietnam war to its east, Laos poses a smoldering danger of escalation. Students of Southeast Asian affairs speculate that Laos is so important that if there had been no war in Vietnam there surely would have been one in the neighbor state, possibly more perilous from the standpoint of international complications. Laos is a gateway to Burma and Thailand and a potential key to mastery of all Southeast Asia.

In 1960, said a later British parliamentary review of Laos, "it was clear that the conflict could easily assume international dimensions and that decisive action must be taken to avert this danger."

Laos demonstrated then that international action was possible, even though the whole story of the major powers' collaboration in Indochina was a study in frustration, and arrangements to deal with the dangers were so full of holes as to be nearly meaningless.

Communist designs on all of Indochina seemed clear at the time of the 1954 Geneva conference which partitioned Vietnam. Ho Chi Minh's North Vietnamese regime demanded recognition in Cambodia for the Communist-led "Free Khmer" forces and in Laos for the Neo Lao Hak Xat, political arm of the Pathet Lao forces.

The Geneva agreements required Ho's Viet Minh to withdraw from Laos. Pending settlement, the Pathet Lao was supposed to be restricted to two northern provinces, Phong Salv and Sam Neua. The United States and South Vietnam did not sign the agreements. Hanoi did, on behalf of the Pathet Lao.

The Communists chose to interpret the agreement as giving them exclusive control of the two provinces. They ignored a requirement to give free access there to the royal government. There were clashes with royal troops. By 1959, the situation was deteriorating rapidly. The Pathet Lao, backed by North Vietnam and Red China, began a terrorist campaign. Pathet Lao troops launched a civil war. Laos appealed to the United Nations, and the Security Council sent a commission which reported the Communists were getting help from North Vietnamese regular troops crossing the border.

The picture became more complicated in 1960 when Capt. Kong Le led a revolt against the royal government, demanding a neutralist regime. North Vietnam sent help to the neutralists. So did the Russians. The United States sent help to the royal government. The situation became so dangerous to world peace that the big powers, including Red China, agreed to confer.

In May 1962 Pathet Lao troops occupied a town on Thailand's border, threatening Thai security. President Kennedy sent American troops to Thailand.

With the pressure mounting, three factions in Laos—Communist, neutralist and royalist—agreed on a Cabinet and sent a delegation to the conference in Geneva. This brought a declaration of Laotian neutrality and independence.

Unlike the 1954 "final declaration" at Geneva, this statement had the force of a formal, signed treaty. It averted the danger of a big-power clash.

Now Laos seems in an even worse situation. Intelligence sources report 40,000 North Vietnamese regular troops in areas of the country controlled by the Communists. The U.S. State Department says it is "watching the situation closely."

Cambodia, too, is a potential flashpoint of conflict. The State Department has let it be known that Washington seeks the help of other countries, probably including Russia and other Communist nations, in a diplomatic drive to deprive Viet Cong forces of their sanctuary there.

The 1962 pattern could be repeating. All the elements are there for a world crisis of major proportions, involving expansion of the Vietnam war to Laos and Cambodia.

This prospect seemed to be enough in 1961 to persuade both the Russians and the Red Chinese to take a hand in snuffing out the fuse. If the danger is great enough again, perhaps it will bring about another international conference.

Two-way Radio Watch Plan

Have Sedalia area lawbreakers had a twinge of conscience during the Christmas holidays?

The all-of-a-sudden decrease in their activities indicates the usually aggressive culprits have been temporarily deactivated by their own penitential volition, or by restraint of the law.

Then, too, the chilly weather may have had something to do with it.

We hope that reference to this current moderation in escapades of needless and wilful damage, robbery, numerous classifications of felony, or reckless handling of a motor vehicle, does not stir up a storm of renewed activity when peace should reign supreme throughout the land.

—O—

Civilian cooperation with enforcement officials under the Crime Alert project, has been promoted in Sedalia for several years and beneficial results from this have been recorded.

Messages to the police, sheriff and highway patrolmen usually come by telephone.

Recently we noticed a news item which indicates how another community proposes to expand crime alert communication.

The Wheaton (Ill.) city administration and police department are considering a "radio watch" plan to help officers apprehend criminal suspects and drag racers.

Cab, truck drivers, and others, in vehicles with two-way radios would be encouraged to notify their dispatchers when they see a suspicious person or a traffic violation.

The dispatcher would then notify the police department and a squad car would be sent to the scene. In this way only the law enforcement men would be directly involved in the incident. Messages to the police or sheriff could be relayed to the highway department quickly thus covering a wide area of action.

—O—

With reference to crime, one of the major deterrents to it is citizen communication with law enforcement officers and between the latter while on or off duty. Prompt use of the telephone to alert authorities is a standard practice.

Two-way radio communication by civilians with equipment that could be used for this purpose offers another effective method to minimize crime activities. Wherever this method is not generally in operation, it deserves expanded promotion among those who properly want to be involved in restraint of crime.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Backstage Encouragement for King

Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — This will be denied, but the United States discreetly and secretly encouraged King Constantine to oppose the Greek military junta.

The first discreet encouragement came from President Johnson himself when the King visited the White House last September. The President was careful. He did not imply that the young monarch should attempt to overthrow the military regime, but he did urge Constantine to oppose the regime's police-state methods, especially the detention of some 6,000 political prisoners and the trial for treason of Andreas Papandreu, son of the former Prime Minister and former Economics Professor at the University of Minnesota and the University of California.

Back in Athens, U.S. Ambassador Phillips Talbot followed Johnson's lead by further encouraging the King to use his influence against the tough tactics of the military. Talbot deliberately courted the King and cold-shouldered the military. He made it quite clear that the United States would like to see Greece return to constitutional rule. This has been the policy of the United States in every country where constitutional rule has been overturned.

On the morning of Dec. 13, Constantine summoned Talbot to the Palace and confided that he intended to overthrow the junta. The Ambassador asked whether the King had planned his move carefully. The King replied in the affirmative and asked for American support. The Ambassador replied that he could make no promise. Constantine brushed this aside, saying he would let the Americans know if he needed help.

Immediately thereafter, the 27-year-old monarch flew to Kavalia, a seaport town 200 miles north of Athens, to rally the northern garrisons behind him. However, there was apathy toward the King. Furthermore, the military government apparently knew of the King's strike in advance.

This is reported to have leaked via Copenhagen. The Queen of Greece, who is Danish, had confided her husband's plans to her parents. The King and Queen of Denmark.

At any rate, Constantine's bold move was not thoroughly prepared. He had not coordinated with Ex-Premier Constantine Karamanlis in Paris, strongest constitutional leader Greece has had since the war. As a result, Constantine fled to Rome with his family.

Back in Athens, Col. George Papadopoulos, Greece's military strongman, suspended American involvement and was furious. Papadopoulos is an intelligence officer by profession, schooled in intrigue, with a steeltrap mind and a tight lip. He arranged an unofficial meeting with Ambassador Talbot at his military headquarters the day after the abortive coup.

Bluntly, Papadopoulos accused the Ambassador of encouraging the King. Talbot flatly denied that the United States had been involved, which technically was true. The United States had given Constantine no direct assistance.

In Rome, meanwhile, U.S. Ambassador Fred Reinhardt slipped across the street from his residence to pay a private call on King Constantine at the Greek Embassy. The King looked haggard but determined. He announced that he still headed Greece's only legitimate government and asked the United States to withhold recognition of the Military regime.

—Menace of Soviet Fleet—

This request, relayed to President Johnson, faced him with a dilemma. He is vigorously opposed to military take-overs. However, his own military advisers have been pointing to the large fleet which the Soviet Union has moved into the Mediterranean, the overtures which Russia has made to Turkey and the tremendous supply of arms that Russia has dumped into Egypt, together with a thousand Russian technical advisers.

The purpose of the Truman Doctrine was to block the spread of communist influence in both Greece and Turkey, which sit astride the Bosphorus. Johnson does not want to lose Greece as a NATO partner. On the other hand he doesn't want to be blackmailed by the Greek military junta into recognizing dictatorship.

He has finally decided to hold up recognition of the junta, meanwhile bringing pressure to restore constitutional government. This was behind the

Viet War: Most Divisive U.S. Church Issue in '68

By DAVID POLING

Since the future is an extension of the past, let us carefully note these events as highpoints in the New Year:

1—Pope Paul VI will announce that, although many are asking, pleading, demanding changes in the Vatican's historic position on birth control, tradition prevails. No sweeping alterations. No allowances in the regulations concerning abortion. Further study required concerning the Pill. Result: The average family will continue to make its own decisions, with or without approval from Rome.

2—The war in Vietnam will become the most divisive issue in the churches of America. The National Council of Churches will be at the forefront of this debate, provoking old enemies and enlarging the field of controversy. Officers of the council are fully aware of this but feel they must press for an end to the war and the beginning of a negotiated peace settlement in Southeast Asia.

3—Father James E. Groppi, the militant civil rights priest in Milwaukee, will succeed (by Easter) in securing a fair-housing bill in that city. Although Father Groppi receives about 25 telephone threats an hour, he has gained something else that guarantees Negro rights—the absolute support of not only his bishop but the aid and comfort of every solid Protestant denomination in the country. National church executives and aides who have been all the way with Father Groppi, told suburban congregations to rally around and will not yield to any half-hearted compromises. These white men will not speak with forked tongue.

4—The World Council of Churches meets in Uppsala, Sweden, in July. We predict that this will be the wildest session the council has ever known. They will gather thousands of delegates from every corner of the globe and consensus will be hard to find. The international conflicts in the Middle East, Vietnam, South Africa are going to be high on the discussion list. World population control is another blockbuster. Conservatives from the American churches usually become the most vocal critics at international affairs. A deposed Presbyterian minister from New Jersey will picket the assembly with his hired hands.

5—The tax squeeze in metropolitan areas will become so acute this year that churches, tax exempt foundations, universities, and religious centers will be invited to help out. In New York City, $15 billion of real estate is tax exempt! With a third of the city off the tax rolls and inflation on—the churches are going to have to face up to their "fair share."

6—The election year of 1968 will not have any religious fireworks. Some Washington experts see an attempt to revive the prayer and Bible reading (in the public school) controversy. That is one that neither church nor state can win. After one or two mentions, it will quietly pass away for this session of Congress. Religious affiliation of candidates will cause no flurry or alarm. Mormon Romney and Christian Scientist Percy do not stir up the theologians or the politicians.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

No Simple Cure Known For 'Noisy' Ligaments

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—I am 64. Every time I turn my neck there is a painful cracking noise. What causes this and is there any cure for it?

A—Cracking in any joint is caused by the snapping of ligaments or tendons as the joint is moved. Although there is no simple cure for this condition, it helps to avoid turning your head quickly. Using a heating pad for 20 minutes two or three times a day should take some of the soreness out of your neck.

Q—What is meant by coxa valga? With this condition, can I have a child by natural childbirth?

A—In an adult, the neck of the femur forms an angle of about 125 degrees with the shaft of the bone. When this angle is increased (more nearly a straight line), a congenital condition called coxa valga exists. Of itself this would have no effect on childbirth.

Q—What is synovitis?

A—This is an inflammation of the membranous sheath that surrounds the tendons in the vicinity of a joint. It commonly affects the ankles, knees and fingers.

Q—My psychiatrist is giving me an intramuscular injection of Novocain once a week for a nervous condition. How will this help my emotional problem? Can I become addicted to the drug?

A—Procaine (Novocain) is a local anesthetic. Although it has been used for many other purposes, such use is not recommended because other drugs work better. It is not habit-forming.

Q—I have a papilloma about the size of a grain of rice on my back. Is it best to leave it alone or have it removed?

A—Papillomas of the skin are wartlike growths. If they are subjected to constant friction or become infected they should be removed. Otherwise they should be left alone. The operation is both safe and simple.

Q—Why are some drugs referred to as major and others as minor tranquilizers? Which type is Librium?

A—The major tranquilizers are used chiefly, but not exclusively, to relieve aggressiveness and overactivity in acutely disturbed mental patients. They are not habit-forming. The minor tranquilizers, of which Librium, Equanil, Miltowa and Valium are examples, are used chiefly for the suppression of anxiety and nervous tension. When taken for a prolonged period they cause the user to become emotionally or physically dependent on them.

Want the Credit For Budget Trim

By ROBERT GRAY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both Congress and the Johnson administration now seek credit for budget cuts each shied away from for many months.

Postsession statements by several senators and representatives list a resolution mandating spending decreases among the top congressional achievements of the year.

But the administration views the resolution as the result of "an executive branch proposal."

For months prior to enactment of the resolution in the closing hours of the congressional session, President Johnson and Congress each argued the other had the responsibility for reducing spending.

Each expressed satisfaction with the end result, however. One likely reason is the way in which the final product allows generalized claims of economy while avoiding any impact on such politically sensitive areas as veterans' benefits, farm supports, medicare and public works projects.

The complexities of the federal budget allow members of Congress to claim savings ranging to $10 billion in the current fiscal year, although actual spending is expected to be higher than it was in the 1966-67 fiscal year.

The economy claims are related to the appropriations President Johnson asked for in his budget proposals last January, rather than to actual expenditures.

And the mandate for cuts was unrelated to previous years.

Thus, in the wonderland of federal finance, the claims of a cutback of nearly $10 billion come in the wake of a session of which total appropriations approved were $10 billion more than the previous all-time high of $147 billion set in 1942.

In any given fiscal year, much of the actual dollar outlay is based on appropriations of previous years.

While the congressional budget-cutters say their savings directive will produce a reduction of $4 billion in spending this year, that figure is again related to the Johnson budget estimates, not to any actual levels of federal spending.

And there's some question as to whether the number of dollars paid out this year will even be under the estimates, much less last year's spending.

But what is being hailed as a major economy move will enable members of Congress to point with pride and the administration to assert it has met the congressional condition for budget cuts before any tax-increase legislation will be considered.

It's All in the Head

The medical profession has never been able to come up with a real preventative or cure for the common cold, but now the psychoanalysts think they have. They think common colds may be caused by depression and not by viruses. Dr. Merl M. Jackel reported on a three year study of ten patients during their infidence of colds. The conclusion was 25 out of 26 colds were preceded by depressions. The doctor said, "These patients developed depression at other times without developing colds, but colds did not develop in the absence of depression. These findings suggest a casual relationship." He added that since weeping and head colds present the same medical symptoms it is possible that many colds are "symbolically expressed tears."

Treatment on the couch has made great strides in mental illness and the learned analyst may have found something important in relation to the common cold, but it does not seem very convincing among the millions who suffer from this affliction that a study of ten psychiatric patients is sufficient to relate the cold with depression. It would seem more natural to admit that depression and annoyance are a result rather than a cause of coughing, sneezing and nose dripping and a thick head.

Executives by Computer

How's your M.Q.? Mobility Quotient, that is.

Thanks to the computer and the new science of "mobigraphy," a corporation president can now turn to a scanning board and watch his potential successors scrambling to succeed him, much as he would read the tote board at a racetrack.

The computer must be properly programmed, of course, says the inventor of mobigraphy, Dr. Eugene E. Jennings of the University of Michigan. But he says mobigraphy enabled him to predict nine out of 11 winners in a field of 208 candidates in firms scheduled to select new presidents in 1966.

Executives are moving to the top faster today, says Jennings. The average age of a new president has dropped from 61-63 to 51-53 and the time required to make the climb from the first managerial level has dropped from 29 years to under 20.

BERRY'S WORLD

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Many people start out by saying, "I never thought I would have to write to you," but I am not one of those. I have long suspected that one day you would go too far and arouse my indignation to the point where I could no longer remain silent. Today is the day.

Strangely enough, it is not your narrow, antiquated views on sex that prompt me to write — it is the letter from the girl whose friend was embarrassed by her ragged underwear when she was admitted to the hospital emergency room.

She said, "Luckily Della suffered only a broken shoulder and dislocated hip but she wasn't concerned about her injuries. It was her faded and soiled underwear that caused her the most agony." And then you, like a big boob, counseled: "Check your linen, girls. Are you wearing a girdle and bra you wouldn't mind modeling in an emergency ward?" All I can say is, "Good grief!"

Della should have been thankful to almighty God that she was alive instead of worrying about her underwear. And you backed her up!

I could care less about the condition of my underwear. It's way down on the list of things that count. I think you are both crazy. — RAGGED BUT CAREFREE

Dear Ragged: If this column did nothing but point out the human frailties and kookiness of people it would serve a useful purpose. It is comforting to know that even the most balanced and stable individuals have a nutty hang-up or two. And incidentally, there is something to be said for tidy underwear. If you haven't tried it, don't knock it.

Dear Ann Landers: I was glad to see a letter in your column which pointed out that a great many people who complain about the free loaders on relief speak from vague generalities. They have no evidence that the "free loader" is really a lazy good-for-nothing who would rather dog it than put in an honest day's work.

I was on welfare for two years and it meant the difference between life and death to me and my family. My husband sneaked out of the house one winter night and left a note saying he was going off with Veronica to make a new life. I had heard about Veronica but I felt sure his passion for her would cool, as it had for the three dollies who preceded her.

My husband left behind four children under six years of age and a stack of unpaid bills. It was December and the coal bin was nearly empty. There was very little food in the house and our relationship with the grocer was on a cash-only basis. We were what they call "slow pay."

When I married, my family told me I couldn't count on them for any help and they meant it. If I had not had the assistance of welfare I hate to think of what would have happened to me and my children. So, thank you, Ann, for refusing to run with the herd who condemn everyone on relief. We are not all parasites. — X.Y.Z.

Dear X: From the dawn of history there have always been people who would rather loaf than work. The shovel-leaner was not born of the W.P.A. in 1933. He was around when they built the Pyramids and he'll be with us as long as man exists. We must not withhold a helping hand to the ones who need it in order to protect ourselves from being taken in — and no one denies that we do get taken in — plenty.

Disaster Areas Are Named By Gov. Hearnes

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today declared Potosi, Washington County and adjacent areas as a disaster area under state law because of tornado damage they suffered earlier this month.

He said this would authorize state agencies to use personnel and equipment wherever necessary "for the preservation of life, property and the restoration of public facilities."

The governor acted at the request of Mayor Homer E. Mc-

Clain of Potosi and Bernard Polite, presiding judge of the Washington County Court.

Hearnes noted in his letter to them there was not enough damage to public property to qualify as a federal disaster area. But the Office of Economic Opportunity and the Small Business Administration have been asked to do what they can to help with any aid available plus long term, low interest loans.

He suggested the local officials send specific requests to Col. James H. Bash, state civil defense director in charge of emergency state aid.

First American city to replace its horse-drawn trolleys with electric street cars was Baltimore, Md., in 1885.

Woman Wins $13,750 In One Night

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer
RENO, Nev. (AP) — "I get in front of a couple of machines and I feed and pull and feed and pull and get a rhythm going—the faster you play the more you get."

And the first thing you know you've got a brassiere stuffed with currency and a set of shingards made out of C-notes.

You do, that is, if you are Mrs. Anne Clarke, who tackled the new $5 slot machines in Harold's club with a $20 stake the other night and staggered away 10 hours later with a cool $13,750.

"After I got my brassiere full I stuffed $100 bills into the tops of my stockings until they were running down my legs," she said.

As anybody with gambling experience knows, you can't beat the house percentage playing the slot machines. But you can't prove that by Mrs. Clarke. She says she has been bucking the one-armed bandits at Harold's club with consistent success since 1963 and has the cash to prove it.

Mrs. Clarke, who runs a dress shop in Vancouver, B.C., told an interviewer:

"I've got $12,000 worth of Harold's club money in a bank at home marked 'Reno money.' I usually carry $2,000 down here with me, and I only play with what I come down with. The rest is in safe deposit and I can't get to it."

Mrs. Clarke said she plays Harold's club about four times a year. She started in 1963 after surviving an illness which required three operations and almost killed her.

Health restored, "I decided I'd do something silly," she said. "I thought I'd come to Reno and gamble some."

Mrs. Clarke said she left Reno in 1963 with a net profit of $560, made another $3,900 in the spring of 1964, clipped the machines for $4,900 a few months later and cleared $3,300 on a Christmas visit.

She said she had a losing year in 1965, including a $1,700 trip to the cleaners in April, but averaged a $500 profit in four visits in 1966. On Tuesday night, playing the $5 slots, Mrs. Clarke hit it big.

Mrs. Clarke said she turned to dressmaking after a professional stage career which included a stint as a Ziegfeld Follies girl in New York. She is married to a truck driver, Teddy Clarke.

$330,000 Taken

IN THE NEWS

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Leonard A. Garnett opened a service station in 1928.

His will, filed for probate recently, provides for a division of an estate, which attorneys say may exceed $4 million, between his widow, Helen Garnett, and 24 employees.

Garnett died Nov. 8, 1966. He had established and was principal stockholder in six automotive parts companies and had other real and personal property.

The will provides that 24 employees will annually receive between $3,000 and $4,000 until they die or change jobs.

Helen Garnett said, "He felt a responsibility to help them after his death because they had been so faithful."

DENISON, Tex. (AP) — Ricky Shearer, 4, of Denison wasn't carrying on a silent protest against the electronic age—he just didn't understand the intercom at Madonna Hospital. A nurse, attempting to check so.

the line to Rickey's room, which ended in a wall speaker at the head of his bed, failed to get any answer.

She implored, "Say something, Rickey. I know you're there."

Finally with some hesitation and a great deal of awe, a small voice answered, "What do you want, wall?"

MONROE, Mich. (AP) — Thirty high school students, members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship at St. Paul's church, have taken on the task of reading the Bible out loud from beginning to end. The youths started reading Christmas Eve and since then have been continuing in half-hour shifts.

Super Bowl Role Possible

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay and Oakland should meet in the Super Bowl Jan. 14 at Miami if form holds up in the two league championship games to be played Sunday.

The past records in the picking league and the won and lost figures don't mean a thing at this stage so let's toss them out the window and concentrate on the job at hand.

Both games will be played Sunday with national television coverage in a doubleheader that will call for a flick of the dial. The Green Bay-Dallas game at Green Bay for the National Football League title goes on first at 2 p.m., EST, and will be seen on CBS. The Oakland-Houston game at Oakland for the American Football League crown starts at 5 p.m., EST, with NBC covering.

Here's the way it looks to the Hand picker, who went down with the Rams and won with the Cowboys last week:

NFL
Offense—Cowboys may have the edge over Packers with erratic Don Meredith apparently back on beam and runners like Dan Reeves, Don Perkins and young Craig Baynam plus receivers like Bob Hayes and Lance Rentzel. However, Bart Starr is winging the ball again and picking defenses apart like he did last year after a so-so season. Injuries forced Vince Lombardi to shuffle his thin crop of running backs, but he has a big winner in rookie Travis Williams, who can break it open any minute as a ball carrier or kickoff return whiz.

Packers' rebuilt offensive line with Bob Hyland at center and Gale Killingham at guard teamed up with veterans Forrest Gregg, Jerry Kramer and Bob Skoronski handled the Rams' Fearsome Foursome with room to spare last week. Dallas provides greater protection for Meredith with Ralph Neely having proved last year he could handle Willie Davis.

Defense—Up front the Cowboys' Domsday Defense centers on tackle Bob Lilly with help from Willie Townes, Jethro Pugh and George Andrie. Packers front four of Willie Davis, Ron Kostelnik, Henry Jordan and Lionel Aldridge about even with Dallas. Linebackers of Packers are superior and Green Bay's deep defense is better.

Kicking—Don Chandler more consistent than Danny Villanueva on field goals, but season figures show Villanueva the edge over Donny Anderson in punting.

Summing it up, the Packers new find, Travis Williams, Starr's ability to read defense and veteran Green Bay defense and the home field edge in bitter cold weather suggest this score:

Green Bay 27, Dallas 17

AFL
Offense—Oakland has overcome loss of Clem Daniels' with a solid air game directed by Daryle Lamonica pitching to Hewitt Dixon and Billy Cannon. Oilers eke it out along the ground with Woodie Campbell and Hoyle Granger doing the heavy work while Pete Beathard wings the ball. Houston's offensive line does a good job protecting its passer, but Lamonica often has to unload in a hurry.

Defense—Oilers have done superb job with fine first-year effort by linebacker George Webster. When two clubs met in regular season game Dec. 10, Raiders had to go to George Blanda for four field goals to pull it out in second half 19-7. A bruising battle up front, but Oakland's linebackers appear to have the edge. John Wittenborn not a Blanda in the field goal league where Raiders have made good 20 times.

Summing it up—Raiders are at home and Al Davis, the general manager and former AFL president, is aching to get shot at NFL in the Super Bowl. Superior offense against Wally Lemm's stingy Houston defense suggests this score:

Oakland 30, Houston 17.

Oklahoma State Scores Upset Win Over Kansans

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Oklahoma State, coached by the Iron Duke and led by 5-foot-9½ Gene Hawk, has given other Big Eight basketball teams renewed hope by knocking off defending champ Kansas in the first round of the league's pre-season tournament.

OSU's 79-67 victory, achieved with Hank Iba's disciplined control game and 64 per cent shooting, must rank high on the list of upsets in the career of the 63-year-old Iba, a legend in his own time.

It might also establish OSU as a prime title contender, getting his young club over the hump after losing three earlier games by four points. But the two-time Olympic coach who has won 737 games won't go that far.

"Yes, this should help our club," Iba said. "We've been coming, but we're still not a mean enough club. We've got a long way to go. Kansas has a real fine club and we were very fortunate to win."

OSU, now 6-4 for the season, faces Nebraska, 5-4, at 9 p.m., CST, and Kansas State, 5-3, meets Colorado, 6-3, at 7 in the semifinals. Nebraska got 24 points and 11 rebounds from talented, 6-3 Stuart Lantz, and beat Oklahoma 75-65 in the other first round game Thursday night.

Hawk scored 25 points, most of them on driving layups past the frantic Jayhawks, who came back with half-court and full-court pressure after dropping behind 37-25 at halftime.

Cornermen Joe Smith, 6-5, and Bill Christopher, 6-7, scored 20 points each. Smith hit all 14 of his free throws, running his string to 33. Charles Savell, 6-9 pivotman, smothered Kansas inside and on the boards.

Jo Jo White of Kansas, the tourney's Most Valuable Player last year, drew his fourth foul with 14:33 left, but still scored 21 of his team's last 28 points, mostly from long range. Despite his efforts, Kansas was never closer than six the last half, 66-60. His 28 was a career high.

Coach Ted Owens, whose 9-0 tourney record was shattered, had high praise for the fiery little Hawk. So did Iba, who observed "Hawk has speed, and they probably underestimated it."

OSU had 15 layups and two goals from point-blank range under the basket in hitting 24 of 39 shots for .614, smashing the old tourney mark of .588. In a fast bruising last half, OSU hit 13 of 19, KU 17 of 32.

Nebraska made its first 25 free throws before missing one with 1:09 left and finishing 27-for-28. Don Sidle led OU with 18 points and 12 rebounds.

In the loser's bracket today, Iowa State, 4-4, meets Missouri, 3-6, at 1 p.m. and Kansas, 6-3, faces Oklahoma, 3-6, at 3.

Canadiens Come Back With Rally

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gilles Tremblay and Jean-Claude Tremblay of the Montreal Canadiens are not related. But, oh brother, did they take the stars out of the North Stars' eyes!

The Canadiens, uncharacteristically move up in struggling to the National Hockey League's East Division race, were trailing Minnesota 2-1 after one period Thursday night. Then, the Tremblays went to work. Jean-Claude, a defenseman, tied it at 2-2 after only 34 seconds of the second period. Gilles, a left winger, got hot later in the session. He scored three times within less than four minutes and powered Montreal to a 6-2 victory.

The Detroit Red Wings defeated the Philadelphia Flyers 3-3 in the only other game.

Gilles Tremblay's goals came at 14:03, 15:04 and 17:44 of the second session, lifting his season total to 11.

Power play goals by Mike McMahon and Parker MacDonald sandwiched around a score by Montreal's Claude Provost gave the North Stars a 2-1 lead in the ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — Rockhurst plays St. Norbert's, Wis., and Warrensburg State takes on St. Mary of the Plains today in consolation of the St. Cloud basketball tournament.

The semifinals will have Hiram Scott, Neb., vs. Concordia, Minn., and St. John's Minn., vs. St. Cloud tonight.

In Thursday's games Concordia edged Rockhurst 94-93 despite the tourney record of 38 points scored by Rockhurst's Jim Healey.

Concordia held a big 52-37 half time advantage, but Rockhurst almost caught up.

St. Cloud defeated St. Mary 80-54, shooting 60 per cent from the field, and taking a 33-25 edge in rebounding. St. Mary shot only 36 per cent.

St. John's edged the Warrensburg Mules 76-74. The score was tied 14 times before St. John's pulled ahead. Sylvester Mitchell hit 24 points for the Mules.

'Don B' Is At Head Of Race Field

By TOM SALADINO

Associated Press Sports Writer

Don B., one of the West Coast's top candidates for the Kentucky Derby, heads the field at Santa Anita Saturday in the $50,000-added California Breeders' Championship Stakes. The Santa Anita race is one of four stakes to be run on the last Saturday of the year. Others are the $25,000-added Capitol Handicap at Laurel, the $15,000-added Miami Beach Handicap at Tropical, and the $10,000-added Sugar Bowl Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

Don B. figures to be the early favorite in the seven furlong race for 2-year-olds, with a probable field of 15 California-bred colts. Owned by Don B. Wood and ridden by Don Pierce, Don B. has captured seven of 11 starts. In his last outing he whipped Royal Fols by six lengths in the $70,200 Bay Meadows Juvenile Championship at 1-16 miles. Broad Shadows, Right or Wrong and Royal Fols are other top contenders.

Spring Double, owned by Woodside Stud, appears to be the one to beat in the seven-furlong race for 3-year-olds Capitol and has drawn top weight of 122 pounds including jockey Chuck Baltazar. The competition is expected to come from Harriet L. Ball's Navy Admiral, 117; Violet Stewart's, Garmin, 116; and A.J. O'Connell's Flowers Boy, 114, in the expected field of six.

The Miami Beach Handicap for 2-year-olds expects a field of eight or 10 in the one mile and 70 yards. Thomas LeClair's Subpet, winner of the Sapling Stakes at Monmouth heads the field and will carry top weight of 124 pounds.

At the Fair Grounds, the entry of Kentucky Sherry and Miles Spencer are the probable favorites to take the Sugar Bowl 'Cap for 2-year-olds at six furlongs. The pair has 13 victories in 16 outings.

opening period. John Ferguson of Montreal scored the game's final tally early in the third period.

Boston College To Play Louisville In Tournament

By RON RAPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

Boston College, the nation's 10th-ranked team, will meet Louisville, led by All-American Westley Unseld, on the final day of the New York Holiday Festival Basketball Tournament. That was expected.

At stake will be third place in the annual ECAC event. That was not expected.

As a matter of fact, the unexpected popped up at various spots around the tournament circuit Thursday night as such powerhouses as Indiana, No. 3 in the country, and Tennessee, No. 4, were also defused a bit.

New York City basketball, known more for developing and losing the Lew Alcindors than for keeping them, enjoyed one of its finest moments at Madison Square Garden where St. John's beat Boston College for the second time this season, 60-57 and Columbia stopped Louisville 74-67.

The St. John's victory wasn't decided until the final minute when Rudy Bogad and Joe DePre put in six free throws, but it was still less nerve-racking than the Indians' 91-90 victory in overtime earlier in the season.

"I guess they're the better team," BC Coach Bob Cousy said. "Almost doesn't count."

Columbia's victory was particularly satisfying, as the Lions made up a seven-point halftime deficit. Sophomore Jim McMillan scored 24 points, though Louisville's Unseld topped all the scorers with 25.

Indiana's six-game winning streak came to a rude end in the All Sports Association tournament in Dallas, Tex., where Western Kentucky, 6-2, took the

Little Work For Oilers Set Today

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers take a brief workout today and then fly to Oakland for their fourth American Football League championship game in eight years.

Four months ago practically everyone with the club would have thought such a mission impossible.

The Oilers were 3-11 cellar dwellers a year ago and many fans thought Coach Wally Lemm was a bit optimistic when he indicated a 7-7 break even would be a pretty good season.

Don Klosterman, the general manager, had nothing more than hopes for improvement that would amount to a major step in a four-year rebuilding program.

Klosterman was called in early last year to start the reconstruction program after 6-8, 4-10, and 4-10 seasons had followed two AFL championships and a third Eastern Division title.

The defensive unit for the comeback Oilers jelled rather quickly, the 15 rookies performed amazingly well all season, and quarterback Pete lead early and never lost it, winning 110-91.

Wayne Chapman scored 34 points for the winners and Rich Hendrick added 26.

Tennessee carried Iowa into overtime at the Los Angeles Classic, before losing its first in five games 64-59. Baskets in overtime by Dick Jensen, Sam Williams and Ron Norman won for the Hawkeyes. Williams led the scorers with 25 points.

But the road was not so rough for some of the other Top Ten teams Friday. Fifth-ranked North Carolina beat Stanford 87-78 and Utah, No. 7, edged Oregon, 64-63 in the Far West Classic at Portland, Ore.

In other tournament action Friday, St. Francis downed Duquesne 86-83 to move in the Quaker City final in Philadelphia against Temple, which beat Wisconsin 82-80. St. Joseph's, Pa., won the Gator Bowl tourney at Jacksonville, Fla., from Washington 79-74.

The University of Connecticut beat William and Mary 51-49 in Beathard began making the offense move after being acquired in October from Kansas City.

"I've been surprised but very, very pleased," Klosterman said. "When we began rebuilding we figured it would take about four years."

The Oilers gave up only 199 points all season, the first time any AFL defense has been under 200 points.

No Letup For Verga In Contest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Verga of the Dallas Chaparrals apparently intends to continue his effective shooting right up to the time he goes into the U.S. Army next week.

Verga, the American Basketball Association's second leading scorer, contributed 37 points Thursday night when Dallas edged the Indiana Pacers 127-125 on Cincy Powell's layup in overtime.

In other games, Minnesota, leading the Circuit's Eastern Division, defeated New Orleans 115-101, Houston beat Anaheim 104-93 and Denver downed New Jersey, 119-102.

Powell hit on his clinching basket for Dallas with only 35 seconds left in overtime. The Pacers, who were paced by Bob Netolicky's 37 points, had one last try at tying the game. But Fred Lewis' jump shot bounced off the basket and the rebound was grabbed by Dallas' John Beasley.

Verga is scheduled to leave Jan. 5 for six months of Army reserve training.

Sam Smith came off the bench in the fourth quarter and ignited a 10-point scoring burst that carried the Muskies to victory over New Orleans. Smith scored eight of the 10 points as Minnesota increased an 86-83 lead. The triumph was the Muskies' fourth straight and increased their divisional lead to 1½ games over Pittsburgh.

Mel Daniels topped Minnesota with 26 points. Jimmy Jones was high for the Bucs, also with 26.

Joe Hamood, a second stringer, starred for Houston. He got 17 of his 19 points in the decisive fourth quarter during which the Mavericks outscored Anaheim, 30-21. Art Becker led the winners with 22 points while Warren Davis was the Amigos' high man with 17.

Denver used a successful fast break in the third quarter to toll past New Jersey. Larry Jones paced the winning Rockets with 31 points.

In the National Association, Cincinnati beat San Francisco 126-122 and San Diego defeated Seattle 143-125.

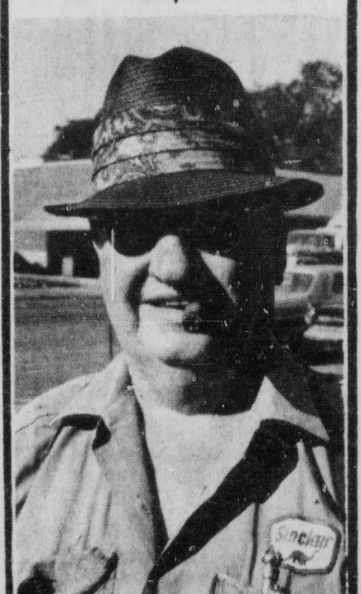

the Connecticut Basketball Classic at Storrs, Conn., and TCU beat Massachusetts 66-65. Alabama won the Mobile, Ala., Classic, downing Tulane 90-83.

Brigham Young beat Xavier of Ohio 87-75 and Virginia Tech downed Idaho State 103-76 in the All College tournament at Oklahoma City, Okla. Miami won the Hurricane Classic at Miami Beach, Fla., beating NYU 102-91.

At the Tirangle Classic in Raleigh, N.C., North Carolina State beat Army 75-60 and Georgia nipped Yale 79-75.

Takes His Work Clothes When Visiting Relatives

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I always keep an old set of work clothes in a plastic bag in the trunk of my car. When on trips, or a visit with out-of-town relatives, I have the necessary clothes for an unexpected chore.

I also take a small supply of dry wood split up for kindling and some lighter fluid when we go on a vacation. They come in handy for those times when we stop to cook and eat in roadside parks.—MELVIN

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—My Dacron polyester fiber filled pillows are soiled and I would like to know if they can be washed. I have been unable to get any information from the store where they were bought.—M. W. T.

DEAR POLLY—All through the year I save those little plastic ties that come around bread and rolls to use when making a candy wreath for children before Christmas. Bend a coat hanger into a circle. Wrap this with aluminum foil or red or green crepe paper. Fasten individually cellophane-wrapped candies to the hanger with plastic ties. This makes an attractive wreath that the children look forward to getting each year.—EDITH

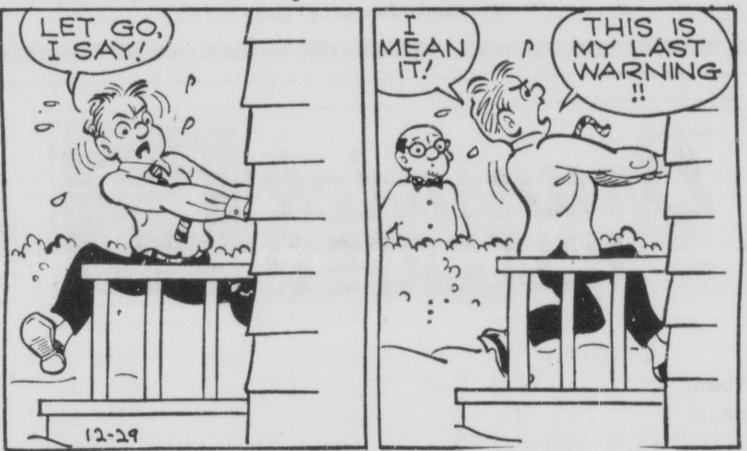

DEAR POLLY—I have a helpful suggestion for N. G. who wants to know how to clean clam shells. When I was in New Orleans several years ago I bought some uncleaned shells and the lady at a seaside shop told me to soak them in pure liquid bleach for several hours or overnight, then rinse them in water, using a fairly rough sponge for scrubbing.—JAN

DEAR READERS—This is only recommended for white shells as the bleach would, doubtless, remove any color from colored ones.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—We find many uses for the cardboard that come in freshly laundered shirts. We find that they are fine for greeting card lists. They are easier to handle than many sheets of paper and all the names and addresses can be seen at a glance. We put a green ink dot beside each name as we write the address on the envelope. Next year we will use a red dot and so on.

Our budget is also made out on such a cardboard. It is easy to find in a hurry as I keep it under my desk blotter. There are no pages to turn and I can quickly see what I have hand-lettered. There is also room to list each day's expenditures.—MRS. C. A.

Unitas Wins Thorpe Cup

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
NEA Sports Editor

MASTER OF ALL

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It would be difficult to convince the Baltimore Colts there's still truth in the old cliché, "One game doesn't make a season." But when the legend of 1967 is finally inscribed, there will be a true assessment of their achievement in losing just one game in 14—and of the incomparable performance of a 34-year-old quarterback.

He has the scars of many physical contacts and a bursitis shoulder that crimps his chief talent, throwing a football.

He is also the greatest of all modern quarterbacks and has been announced today by Newspaper Enterprise Association as the winner of the 1967 Jim Thorpe Memorial Trophy.

The award signifies his rank as the outstanding player in the National Football League. To appreciate how long John Unitas has been the dominant force in pro football, note that he won his first Jim Thorpe trophy in 1957, when he was a sophomore in the NFL.

The jury for this award is composed of the 640 active players on the 16 teams, polled by NEA, and they awarded him this year's trophy with definitive tributes.

"I don't feel anyone is in a class with John this year," commented Bart Starr, the quarterback of the Green Bay Packers. "He has been superb all year and the Colts' record indicates what he means to them."

Bart had been the equally impressive recipient of the Jim Thorpe trophy last year.

"No one close to Unitas," said Tommy Mason of their chief rivals and conquerors, the Los Angeles Rams.

The NFL players voted for three choices in official order, excluding teammates in their balloting.

"I am leaving the first place vote blank," noted Lou Michaels, his Colt teammate, "because I believe John Unitas should win it."

The appreciation of Unitas by his compatriots, the men he plays with and against, has never been stronger.

Unitas' only serious competitors were his aides in the NEA all-pro backfield this year, also selected by the players: Leroy Kelly of Cleveland.

Gale Sayers of Chicago.

Johnny will be with them in Los Angeles for the official presentation of his trophy at the all-pro party in CBS Television City, Hollywood, on Jan. 18. It will be filmed and shown nationally by CBS during halftime of the Pro Bowl game in Los Angeles on Jan. 21.

In winning this award, established in 1955 and now the most prestigious honor in professional football, Unitas added to the remarkable list of accomplishments for a man who once played sandlot football for the Bloomfield (Pa.) Rams at $7 a game.

He yielded the passing championship for 1967 to Sonny Jurgensen of the Washington Redskins, who was fourth in the voting, but he led all National League passers in percentage of completions, at 58.5. Only Jurgensen surpassed his totals of 436 attempts and 255 completions for 3,428 yards.

These figures now make Unitas the most prolific passer in pro-football history—and also the most effective, surpassing Y. A. Tittle's old records this season. In addition, every touchdown pass completed adds to the record he already holds in that career category.

This proficiency has also made Unitas the first $100,000 salaried player in pro football. A new three-year contract went into effect this season.

As the Jim Thorpe Trophy will attest, Johnny Unitas wasted no time in fulfilling the terms of his obligation to produce for the Baltimore Colts.

The final vote tabulations:

John Unitas, Baltimore, 482.
Leroy Kelly, Cleveland, 284.
Gale Sayers, Chicago, 164.
Sonny Jurgensen, Washington, 140.
Bart Starr, Green Bay, 76.
Fran Tarkenton, New York, 45.

In The News

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mrs. Veronica Pomponi, a clerk in a dry cleaning shop, routinely checks pockets of all clothes. She was going through a pair of pants Wednesday and pulled out a handful of $100, $50 and $10 bills.

Every time her hand came out more money was in it. "We began counting it and got up to $3,000...there was plenty more...at least $4,000," shop owner Harry Weiner said.

Mrs. Pomponi said she ran after the woman who had brought in the trousers and located her in a nearby supermarket.

"She didn't say a word," said Mrs. Pomponi. "Just took the money and walked off."

EVERETT, Wash. (AP) — Early this month Mrs. Don Chase's quick telephone call to the Great Northern Railway gave dispatchers time to re-route a train before it crashed into a rock and mud slide.

Her call wasn't quite soon enough Wednesday. A mail train was wrecked and 300 feet of track ripped out when a slide occurred in almost the identical spot. Both slides were caused by breaks in an earth-walled reservoir above the tracks.

The railroad is sending Mrs. Chase, who lives above the slide area, a $50 savings bond for her first warning.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dallas County's plans to build a memorial to President John F. Kennedy have run aground again, this time on the New York bond market.

The $100,000 memorial to Kennedy, slain Nov. 22, 1963, two blocks from the proposed site, is to rest atop a $2.8 million, 490-car underground parking garage.

County officials had hoped to take bids on the garage project before the first of the year. But financial advisors are now counseling the delay of the sale of revenue bonds until the New York market promises lower interest rates.

Construction time for the garage, once the dirt starts flying, is estimated at 18 months.

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — It will cost a little more to obtain a "quickie" marriage or divorce in Nevada, beginning Jan. 1.

The state, which ranked fifth in the country last year in marriages performed, has a new law requiring county clerks to collect $1 more for marriage licenses. The additional levy also applies to divorce and annulment decrees. The marriage license fee jumps to $6.

Nevada does not require a waiting period or blood test for marriages. Last year 86,335 couples were married in the state which has an estimated 500,000 population.

Lady Likes Her Sharks

By JOAN CROSBY
NEA Entertainment Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—No matter what you may expect a lady shark expert to look like, you won't come up with a description of Dr. Eugenie Clark, who is a lady shark expert.

Dr. Clark is very petite; she has long, soft black hair, sparkling eyes which hint at her half-Japanese ancestry, and not a muscle in sight. Yet she is one of the world's foremost scientists dealing in sharks and as such will be seen in the premiere program on The Undersea World of Jacques-Yves Cousteau set for ABC-TV on Jan. 8.

The attractive young ichthyologist and mother of four (Hera, 15; Aya, 13; Themistocles, nicknamed Tak, 11, and Nick, 9) became interested in fish because of the geography of Manhattan Island. Her mother worked at the Downtown Athletic Club, at the tip of the island, across the street from the Aquarium.

DR. EUGENIE CLARK
... it became a weekly occurrence.

"My mother worked on Saturdays, and one day she had no one to leave me with, so she took me to work and left me in the Aquarium. I was so fascinated, I asked her if I could go again the next week and it became a weekly occurrence."

By the time Dr. Clark was attending Hunter College, she realized she wanted her life's work to be ichthyology. She attended summer courses at the University of Michigan and after graduation, worked on her master's degree with Dr. Charles Breder, last director of the Aquarium.

In 1955, with one room and a fisherman assistant, she started the Cape Haze Marine Laboratory in Florida. Today it is one of the major scientific centers for the study of fish and the focal point for scientists from around the world. Dr. Clark recently severed her association (it will now be known as the Mote Marine Laboratory) to act as a part-time consultant and to finish a book.

While she has worked with sharks all her life, she has never been in the water with them until the Cousteau show.

"We dived under circumstances most scientist would think were terribly dangerous. But I took courage from Cousteau's men. One time seven sizable ones swam over our heads. Another time the ship's doctor and I were down 80 feet and one big shark came at us. The doctor used his shark billy and the shark turned and swam away. The doctor took it very casually."

On Jan. 12, Peter Marshall, nee Pierre LaCock, will become a nighttime television star when his game show, Hollywood Squares, moves into the Accidental Family spot on NBC-TV.

He hopes the show lasts a long time because he likes it.

PETER MARSHALL
Why lie about a war?

thinks audiences find it as amusing as the stars who play the game, and because "if it lasts for three years, I'll have enough salted away so that I can do anything I want, which is Broadway."

The tall, handsome young man had one good fling on Broadway, as Julie Harris' leading man in the musical "Skyscraper." He had been offered several daytime panel shows, but until Hollywood Squares didn't find one he liked enough to do.

A former member of the comedy team of Noonan and Marshall, the brother of actress Joanne Dru, and one of the world's great sports fans, Peter is so honest it hurts—his press agent.

He has four children, ranging from 18 to 9, although he looks young enough for them to be infants or toddlers. "My press agent always tells me not to mention the children's ages. He also says if I talk about being in the war I should give the impression it was Korea. Well, I was in World War II. What am I going to do, lie about a war?"

IN THE NEWS

NEW YORK (AP) — A judge has ordered a crackdown on Greenwich Village coffee houses to clean up what he termed the "madness and unhealthy situation which is rapidly developing."

State Supreme Court Justice Charles T. Tierney acted on the complaint of the MacDougal Street Neighborhood Association, which charged the city with allowing coffee houses to operate without a license, allowing excess noise, staying open after hours, and permitting sidewalk barkers to lure customers.

Lack Of Personnel Closes Nursing Unit

One nursing unit, second floor north, has been closed at Bothwell Hospital. The primary reason for the closing is lack of personnel to adequately staff the unit, according to Don Feeback, hospital administrator.

The registered nurse situation has been getting progressively worse at Bothwell for several months, Feeback said. It has developed to a point where a concentration of personnel is necessary in order to give good nursing care and provide relief for nurses who have been working double shifts and days off to cover their nursing units.

The most difficult shifts to staff are the 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. and 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. It is therefore necessary that those people on the day shifts also take their turn on the evening and night shifts. A generous differential in pay is provided for those R.N.'s working the evening and night shifts and a registered nurse that has just graduated has a starting salary of $500 per month, Feeback stated.

The board of trustees recently made increases in the starting salaries for registered nurses to put Bothwell Hospital in a good competitive position with other area hospitals and other offices in Sedalia using the professional people.

The scholarship programs provided through the hospital and through the Susan Wilkerson Scholarship fund have not been too productive in the past two years, Feeback reports. Marriage has been the main factor in preventing the scholarship students from returning to Bothwell after graduation.

During the time the nursing unit is closed, all of the old rooms will be redecorated and the nursing station will be moved into its new location.

The hospital administration is hopeful that the New Year will bring more professional personnel and that all of the new beds can be put into use.

US Hoping To Curb Use Of Cambodia By Cong

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is mounting a multinational diplomatic effort in hopes of curbing Communist use of Cambodian territory as a military sanctuary.

In disclosing this Thursday, State Department officials left open the possibility that the U.S. approach—including providing evidence of Red bases in Cambodia—would be made to some Communist as well as non-Communist countries.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey declined, however, to make public what he termed the documented evidence at this time.

"We are attempting a serious and private diplomatic initiative and reserve the right to keep some portions of it confidential," the State Department spokesman said.

Officials declined to say what interested governments would be contacted. But they did not dispute suggestions that these could include parties to the Geneva agreements on Indochina—which include Russia and Red China—as well as the International Control Commission members: India, Canada and Poland.

The newest move in the simmering dispute over military activity in Vietnam-bordering areas followed Wednesday's publication of an exchange of notes between the United States and avowedly neutral Cambodia.

The U.S. note, dated Dec. 4, declared American forces have "no hostile intentions" toward Cambodian territory. It said the root cause of the long-standing friction with Cambodia over border incidents stems from Viet Cong and North Vietnamese presence in Cambodian territory adjacent to the South Vietnamese frontier. The note included a summary of evidence compiled from documents and interrogations.

Cambodia's Dec. 24 reply rejected the charge of North Vietnamese-Viet Cong use of Cambodian territory as "groundless accusations" and once again accused the United States of "aggressive acts" against Cambodia.

Although pressure has been increasing from some U.S. and South Vietnamese military commanders to strike against the Red hideaways in Cambodia, State Department officials said Washington is still interested in trying for an amicable settlement through diplomatic means.

McCloskey acknowledged that "we are disappointed with their (Cambodia's) reaction so far."

The State Department did not specify what means it now regards as most hopeful for solving the question. It left open the possibility of setting up a border inspection system by the International Control Commission, the group provided under the Geneva accords to supervise peace and neutrality in the area.

Cambodia's Prince Sihanouk in the past proposed making the commission more effective, the U.S. note recalled. American officials said Washington still supports that idea, but Sihanouk has not followed through on it.

Deserters Seek Asylum In Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Four American sailors who deserted and went to Moscow to protest the Vietnam war will arrive in Sweden Friday to seek political asylum, the Swedish Committee for Vietnam said Thursday.

But the Foreign Office said it had no word on the four or from the Swedish Embassy in Moscow and there had been no visa applications from the sailors.

"This means the sailors are taking a chance," said one official who noted they might be refused entry. But sources indicated the four probably would be accepted by Sweden. An alternative would be to send them back to Moscow.

The four deserted the U.S. aircraft carrier Intrepid at Yokosuka, Japan in October and arrived in Moscow early in November.

The sailors are Richard D. Bailey, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla., John M. Barilla, 20, of Catonsville, Md., Craig W. Anderson, 20, of San Jose, Calif., and Michael A. Lindner, 19, of Mount Pocono, Pa.

In Moscow they appeared on television to criticize U.S. actions in Vietnam and their views have been carried by the Soviet press. A member of the diplomatic community in Moscow reported Wednesday the four were "fed up with Russia" and anxious to reach Sweden.

The Swedish Committee for Vietnam said the sailors had appealed to it for help and that temporary housing had been arranged for them with Swedish families.

Since they jumped ship, the sailors have not had contact with the U.S. Embassy in Moscow or with American newsmen. The Soviet Peace Committee, which has been handling their affairs, has said the four did not want to meet Western newsmen.

Had Right Idea

LONDON (AP) — When a small truck was reported "lost or stolen," Scotland Yard asked all London police stations to preserve the vehicle, if recovered, for fingerprints. It turned out the Yard had the right idea. A fuller description later showed the stolen vehicle belonged to the fingerprint expert at a Wimbledon police station.

Waiting

Qui Nhon, South Vietnam—Twenty-one-year-old Sgt. Victor Hess of Detroit, Mich., rests his chin in his hands as he waits for a C-130 transport plane to take him and his buddies to their new post at Duc Pho. Hess, a member of the 11th Infantry Brigade, the "Jungle Warriors," sports an ace of spades and an aircraft boarding pass on his helmet. (UPI)

Marines, Cong Fight Across Rice Paddies

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines and Communist troops fought across rice paddy dikes 20 miles south of Da Nang Thursday night, the fourth battle between allied and enemy elements in coastal lowlands since the Christmas truce.

A Leatherneck helicopter assault aimed at a Communist-fortified hamlet in the Hoi An sector, 360 miles northeast of Saigon, touched off heavy action believed to engage 500 or so men on each side.

The helicopters landed the Americans, from the 5th Marine Regiment, about 400 yards from the hamlet in a muddy paddy that later seemed ringed by about a battalion of the enemy. The aircraft drew enemy sniper and machine-gun fire both in delivering the fighting men and removing the wounded.

Marine jet planes and helicopter gunships bombed and strafed enemy positions at the hamlet and in tree lines around the paddy. They loosed their explosives in some cases so close to the dikes that metal fragments whipped over the Marines.

Mortar and machine-gun fire spewed from the hamlet.

Associated Press photographer Kim Ki Sam, who went in with the Marines, said they consolidated their positions behind the paddy dikes, two or three feet high, as sporadic firing continued into the night.

"There was no announced casualty report from either side," he wrote. "But the number of dead and wounded was believed significant."

Coastal areas both south and north of the big Marine base at Da Nang have been the scene of heavy fighting in recent weeks.

Shortly after the end Monday of the Christmas cease-fire, South Vietnamese troops began running into enemy forces in that region. Communist units have lost a reported 288 dead in three major engagements since the truce ended.

Cloudy weather Wednesday again limited air action over north Vietnam. U.S. Squadrons got in 106 missions, however, concentrating largely on enemy supply trucks in the southern panhandle. Pilots reported they blew up 31.

Casualty lists for last week showed 420 of the allies and 1,523 of the enemy were killed in combat, compared to 478 and 1,685 respectively in the previous reporting period, Dec. 10-16.

School Payments Received

Cooper County schools have received $117,689 for the December apportionment payments from the State Department of Education.

The payments represent 25 percent of the total apportionment for the school year which includes foundation program improvements enacted by the 74th General Assembly.

Last September the schools received payments totalling 50 percent of the apportionment for the school year. The final payment will be made in March.

Each school will receive: Blackwater, $4,549; Bunceton, $8,848; Prairie Home, $9,091; Otterville, $14,770; Pilot Grove, $14,950; and Boonville, $65,481.

The New Franklin School District received $25,101 from the December payment of the school aid funds. Howard County Treasurer Howard D. Johnson said. The check for the county totaled $88,151, and represents 25 percent of the total apportionment for the second year.

Other districts include Glasgow, $18,665; Fayette, $40,809; Armstrong, $1,936; Myers, $1,504; and Possum, $136.

MoPac To Discontinue Two Passenger Trains

'Deteriorating' Traffic Blamed

By Peter F. Daniels

Missouri Pacific Railroad public relations officer Harry Hammer, St. Louis, reported Thursday MoPac will discontinue two passenger trains through Sedalia Jan. 11 due to "deteriorating passenger traffic" and removal of Post Office bulk mail transportation.

"That was the final blow," Hammer told the Sedalia Democrat - Capital. "We had a passenger deficit of $14 million in 1966 and the loss of mail revenue will be $2,900,000 annually," he said.

"Shops Not Affected"

Hammer stressed, however, the MoPac shops in Sedalia would not be affected by the removal of the two trains. Sedalia has the only major passenger coach repair center in MoPac's system now, he said.

"We do much more than passenger coach repair work there," Hammer said. "As a matter of fact, that aspect is only a small part of it."

The Associated Press said Thursday the Missouri Public Service Commission is considering holding on the MoPac plans to discontinue two night trains between St. Louis and Kansas City.

William R. Clark, commission chairman, said he thought the commission should take an overall look at MoPac operations in the state, and "work out something in the best interests of the public."

John Herbst, 2403 Albert Lee, night operator for the MoPac here, saw the situation differently. He said, "I've got my insurance agency to fall back on, but when they drop these trains, the shops will eventually be forced to close." He also mentioned that Sedalia was the only MoPac passenger coach repair center.

Herbst indicated that continued passenger service to Sedalia is "essential to a thriving town, and I think somebody should stand up and protest the railroad's move."

Final Runs

The two trains to be discontinued are No. 18, east-bound, leaving Sedalia at 2:25 a.m. and arriving in St. Louis at 7:13 a.m. and No. 19, west-bound, leaving Sedalia at 3:50 a.m. and arriving in Kansas City at 6:45 a.m.

No. 18 will leave Kansas City for the last time at 11:50 p.m. Jan. 10, while No. 19 leaves St. Louis on its final run at 12:15 a.m. Jan. 11, Hammer said.

That will leave Sedalia with two trains going each way daily. They are east-bound No. 16, leaving Sedalia at 1:25 p.m., and No. 14, leaving Sedalia at 5:40 p.m. West-bound No. 17 still leaves Sedalia at 12:07 p.m., while No. 15 leaves Sedalia at 6 p.m.

One Killed In I-70 Accident

A St. Louis man was killed and a passenger in his car received minor injuries as a result of a car-truck accident on Highway 70, six and a half miles west of the Marshall Junction at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

According to the Highway Patrol, the dead man, Roger E. McCauley, 47, St. Louis, was driving east on Interstate 70 at a slow rate of the speed when he was passed by an eastbound tractor trailer truck driven by Marus L. Payne, University City, Mo. As the truck went out broadside and went over a 25 foot embankment on the southside of the road. The truck ran into the median, but the driver was unhurt according to the patrol.

The injured passenger, Robert Walker Burkamper, 12, of Lemay, Mo., was taken to the Sweet Springs Community Hospital, where it was reported Thursday by a Hospital spokesman that he would probably be released during the day. According to the Patrol he suffered apparently minor chest injuries and abrasions. The hospital said he was only being held for observation.

Burkamper told the Patrol that he and McCauley, a teacher, were enroute from Lexington to St. Louis when the accident occurred.

Monsees Files For GOP Post

R. H. (Hank) Monsees, Route 2, Sedalia, filed Thursday as a Republican candidate for representative from the 116th District, which takes in St. Clair, Benton, and the southern part of Pettis County.

Monsees is president and co-founder of Hermosa Industries, Inc., manufacturers of fiberglass turkey products. He was executive director of Sedalia-Pettis County United Fund during 1965 and 1966, leaving that position to start Hermosa Industries.

He attended Smithton and Sedalia schools and graduated from the University of Missouri in 1964 with a Bachelor of Sciences degree in business administration.

Monsees and his wife Janet and son Ricky, age four, and infant son Scott, attend Wesley Methodist Church, where he is a member of the Board of Directors. He is a past president of the Ambassadors Sunday School Class of that church. He is a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, for which he has been state director and state community development chairman.

He is a past member of the Sedalia Rotary Club and was an active member of the Young Republican Club while at the University of Missouri. He holds a lifetime membership in Alpha Kappa Psi professional business fraternity.

Monsees began his business career as a farmer in Pettis County and is currently active in farming affairs.

The 116th District includes Pettis, Benton, and St. Clair Counties, plus two precincts in Sedalia: first precinct of the Third Ward and first precinct of the Fourth Ward.

Mayor Awaits Reply

Mayor Ralph Walker said Thursday morning he is waiting for a reply from the Public Service Commission on a Missouri - Pacific Railroad application to discontinue passenger trains to Sedalia before the city council takes action.

Walker said he wanted to be sure of all the facts before any formal decision was made at the city level.

"I've written a letter to the PSC on the status of passenger trains through Sedalia, but I haven't heard anything from them. But I'm sure that the city council would be opposed to any move to discontinue all passenger service."

Walker said earlier in the year no action was taken when MoPac announced discontinuance of two other trains through Sedalia because "we didn't want to interfere if they (the railroad) are losing money on a couple of trains."

"But I think the loss of all passenger service would be bad for Sedalia. We want to keep at least one passenger train going each way," he said.

He said the council would take action as soon as a reply was received from the PSC. Walker said he felt sure that if the railroad planned to stop all trains, the council would probably approve a resolution opposing the move.

"Looking at it realistically," Walker added, "you have to consider that if the railroads are losing money on all their passenger trains the people aren't using them and there's obviously no need for them."

He indicated, however, that would have to be determined by the PSC.

MoPac filed application Dec. 1 with the PSC to discontinue trains 18, 19, 15 and 16. Harry Hammer, Missouri - Pacific public relations officer, said Thursday no action had been taken by the PSC on the application.

Railroads apparently can discontinue trains without PSC action, but PSC can, based on actual need, force the railroad to reinstate trains.

Primary reason for stopping the two trains, according to Hammer, was loss of revenue. funeral services

Local Firms Successful In Bidding

W. J. Menefee Construction Co., and Howard Construction Co., Sedalia, were successful bidders on highway construction projects in Johnson and Ozark Counties, the Missouri State Highway Commission reported Thursday.

The announcement followed the 500th bidding by the Commission on contracts amounting to $109,978,061 for work on 177.4 miles of streets and highways.

Work includes: Johnson County—Highway 50, 4.5 miles grading, culverts, bridging and two 24-foot concrete pavements on part and one pavement on part from Route 58 east to Warrensburg. Howard Construction Co., and affiliated companies bid $1,255,693 to get the contract.

Also in Johnson County, Highway 50, 2.9 miles grading, culverts and 24-foot asphaltic resurfacing and separated sections from Route 58 to Warrensburg. Howard Construction Co.'s bid was $105,910.

In Ozark County: Route 5, 6.5 miles grading, culverts, bridging and 24-foot asphaltic pavement from Wasola southeast to 1½ miles north of Willhoit. Menefee's bid was $1,179,606.

The Goal of Integrity

Perfection is hard to come by. However trite may be this conclusion, it should not dissuade anyone from striving to reach higher standards of personal conduct.

Getting halfway toward the goal by trying is better than making feeble and spasmodic effort.

As the New Year approaches, a few days remain for personal inventory of our actions toward one another during the past year. Were they honest? Were they ethical? Can they stand the spotlight of appraisal without a twinge of conscience? Are we by resolution ready to mend our ways?

Men and women of good will in all walks of life may be interested in a commentary on this subject sent to this editor by J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. While it applies to law enforcement officials, by inference people in business, labor and the professions can visualize a reference to themselves. Let's think about that individually as we read:

A law enforcement officer's badge is a symbol of public faith. His complex and heavy responsibilities represent a public trust. Whenever an officer breaks this faith or violates this trust, the collective image of law enforcement suffers.

In recent years, law enforcement has made great progress. Equipment and facilities have improved. Significant and far-reaching scientific advances have been made. However, all these achievements are meaningless unless every officer is morally committed to the ethics of professional police service.

Under prevailing conditions, this commitment requires perseverance of the highest order. Daily, in many areas, the law enforcement officer is the principal target of abuse from mobs and dissident groups. He is subjected to personal insults and physical attacks, and, increasingly, he is falsely accused of brutality by persons who seek alibis and excuses for their criminal acts. Even so, his conduct must be above reproach. He must exercise self-restraint and remain calm and courageous, never deviating from his code of ethics.

There is no substitute for high principles. Where the ideals of justice are concerned, there can be no laxity. The ethics of an enforcement agency are no better than the ethics of its weakest officer. Honesty and integrity must ride in every cruiser, walk every beat, influence every command, and answer every roll call. Good ethics must be in evidence whenever and wherever duty calls, every minute of every day.

Compromise, personal feelings, animosities, and prejudices have no place in professional police service. Free handouts, cut rate prices, gratuities, and preferential treatment are luxuries an officer cannot accept if he is to keep his professional dignity. These seemingly insignificant matters destroy an officer's objectivity and affect his official actions. All officers must strive to erase the ugly public image of the policeman without character.

Absolute integrity is the only answer.

That answer applies not only to law enforcement officers but to all of us whether or not we even approximate perfection.

Few Insurance Firms Impede Negroes

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—Last fall, Mississippi held a historic election in which 160,000 registered Negroes voted and managed to elect 22 Justices of the Peace, Constables and county supervisors.

The were small, insignificant offices, yet this election came about only after four years of work in registering, overcoming fear, ignorance and white terror. In some cases Justice Department pollwatchers had to be imported. These 22 county officials represent only a handful of the total elected officials in Mississippi, nonetheless it was the most significant election victory for Negroes in a hundred years.

Today, however, thanks to the obstruction of big northern insurance companies, some of these Negroes will not be able to get bond, therefore will not be able to take office.

As of this writing, with about a week to go before their time limit for obtaining bond expires on December 31, white insurance executives are posing almost impossible hurdles. They have actually demanded $170,000 in a cashier's check to bond Negro officials to the extent of $170,000—in other words, $1 for $1. Meanwhile, no interest could be drawn on the $170,000 for four years. This is unheard of. Most bonds required are for only $1,000 to $2,000, and the fee should be nominal. In the past, white county officials have secured bonds overnight. In contrast, it is taking Mississippi Negroes weeks.

Here is the inside story of what elected Negroes have had to undergo to approach the bonds necessary for them to take office.

The Insurance Company of North America, a Philadelphia firm and one of the bigger bonding companies, is represented in Jackson, Miss., by Paul Pullen of Nugent and Pullen. On December 12, Sylvester Gaines, elected supervisor of Jefferson County and requiring an $18,000 bond; Earlie Lot, elected constable of Jefferson County, requiring a $1,000 bond; Willie Thompson, elected Justice of the Peace in Jefferson County, requiring a $2,000 bond; Leander Monroe, elected constable of Claiborne County, requiring a $1,000 bond; and Mrs. Martha Lee, elected Justice of the Peace in Jefferson County, requiring a $2,000 bond—all called on Pullen.

They were accompanied by Robert Fitzpatrick of the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights under Law, a volunteer organization of lawyers, which has been trying to protect Negroes.

—Insurance Runaround—

Pullen was not interested in writing bonds for the five Negroes. He advised them to talk to their insurance bondsmen in Claiborne and Jefferson counties. This avenue had already been explored, and the white establishment in those counties had vetoed any bonds.

Attorney Fitzpatrick pointed out that any conspiracy by insurance representatives to withhold bonds could be a violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act.

In Philadelphia, this column reached W. Richard Heilman, president of the Insurance Company of North America, to ask why Negro officials were refused bonds. Heilman said he had not known of the matter until he received a telegram 24 hours before. He seemed concerned, and wrote down the names of the Negro officials. Nevertheless his company, up until our phone call, had continued to refuse bond for five duly elected Negro officials.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Lee applied to U.S. Fidelity and Guaranty Company of Baltimore, as did Charles Jones, elected Justice of the Peace in Coahoma County, and Matthew Walter, elected Justice of the Peace in Issaquena County. They were first turned down, though after considerable negotiating, finally accepted.

U.S.F. & G. also rejected bonds for Melvin Smith, constable in Issaquena County, James Joliff, supervisor for Wilkinson County, and Sylvester Gaines.

—More Runaround—

Senior vice president of U.S. Fidelity and Guaranty is Williford Gragg, an active Presbyterian who is on the Board of Governors of the Presbyterian Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital in Baltimore and a director of the Baltimore Junior Achievement Committee.

On the other hand, Hartford Accident and Indemnity bonded five Mississippi Negroes and Fidelity and Deposit of Baltimore bonded seven. Julian S. Neal, president of Fidelity and Deposit, when queried by this column, stated: "We seldom ask what color a man's skin is. We don't know whether he is Indian, Negro or white. If an applicant has a record for honesty, we would bond him for $1,000 or $2,000 even if he owned no property."

Five Negro elected officials in Mississippi applied to Fidelity and Casualty of New York, one of the oldest bonding companies in the nation, but were given a turnaround. They were: Leander Monroe, Matthew Walter and Melvin Smith together with Griffin McLaurin, constable in Holmes County, bond $1,000.

The Fox-Everett Agency, representatives of Fidelity and Casualty in Jackson, Miss., appeared to have sat on the applications for some time, presumably in an effort to delay any Negro bonding up to near the Dec. 31 deadline.

Chairman of Fidelity and Casualty is John Victor Herd, also director of American Telephone and Telegraph and Beekman Downtown Hospital; trustee, Brooklyn Hospital, Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, New York University, Adelphi University; and a member of the Salvation Army advisory board. Though interested in civil problems in New York, Mr. Herd's company was apathetic about helping Mississippi Negroes exercise their constitutional rights.

If Negro candidates for county offices must undergo weeks of hammering on the doors of northern insurance companies to obtain bonds, few Negroes can afford the time, money or will power to run for office in the future.

'Parents Are Generally Right'

By RAY CROMLEY, NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

If a four-year study of Stanford and University of California students is correct, this student generation does a great deal of worrying.

A thousand seniors at the two schools were questioned on how often they have felt depressed in the past few years. Half the senior men and two-thirds of the senior women reported periods of depression as occurring an astounding "few times a week" to "a few times a month."

Something around three-fourths of the students said that in their senior year they had felt physically out of sorts between once and five times a month on the average.

To most, "old age," meaning the years after 50, looked pretty bleak. Between a quarter and a third of the senior students said they believed that the people are happiest during their first six years of life and a third thought the happiest time was from 22 to 25. Only one out of seven chose the years after 36. Less than 3 per cent opted for any time after 50.

Most of the senior students questioned seemed to feel they got more out of their associations with other students than they did from their professors, their studies or their textbooks.

In fact, the survey found evidence that college has less impact on students' intellectual development than on their social attitudes.

Only about one senior student out of seven believed he had "increased intellectual activity and curiosity" as a result of his four years in college. The most often mentioned changes were "more self-confidence, poise and independence and more stability."

The single most meaningful experience of the college years most often checked was "love, marriage or conjugal family."

Between half and two-thirds of the women seniors and 30 to 40 per cent of the senior men thought that close relations with friends of the opposite sex had done a great deal to change them. A third of the men and a third to a half of the women seniors thought that close relations with friends of the same sex had done much to change them.

By contrast, only about a fourth of the students felt that ideas presented in courses or by teachers had had "much" influence in causing the change that had taken place in their way of thinking or acting in the four years of college. Half thought the teachers and courses had had a "moderate" influence.

Looking at the changes students saw in themselves from another viewpoint, the seniors reported that being away from home had had considerable influence. One of the major factors causing them to change since their freshman year, about half the seniors felt was "confrontation with problems and conflicts in myself."

Apparently most of the students had not turned to their professors for solutions to these problems and conflicts.

Despite this inner conflict, somewhat over half the seniors believed that "in the final analysis, parents generally turn out to be right about things."

This, after all, is quite a compliment for parents in this day and age.

Tannah Hirsch, the associate editor of the American Contract Bridge League Bulletin, plays a lot more bridge than most members of the league staff. One reason is that Tannah, who played top flight bridge in Europe for many years, wants to become a Life Master in this country.

He writes very scientifically for the bulletin. His own bidding is of the simple style as may be seen from his six no-trump call with this hand from a recent tournament. A scientist's scientist would have taken up to a dozen bids to get to the eventual slam and if that slam happened to be in clubs, the scientist would have had no play to make his contract against a heart lead.

A spade was opened against the six no-trump contract. Tannah looked over dummy's ace and called for the deuce of clubs discard. Then he led a club to dummy's ace. East showed out and Tannah went after diamonds. When that suit broke all Tannah had to do was to lead a heart toward his king in order to make his no-trump slam.

"Lucky discard," said North.

"Not at all," replied Tannah. "It was the correct play. I could not make more than six no-trump unless I could run both minor suits. Clubs figured to break but I didn't really need six club tricks. Five clubs plus three spades plus three diamonds would represent 11 tricks and East was marked with the ace of hearts for his spade overcall. If neither suit broke I wasn't going to make my slam in any event. If clubs broke I could spare a club, but if diamonds broke and clubs did not, I couldn't spare one of dummy's diamonds."

Fine analysis and a most unusual hand. We wonder if many players would have made that winning play at trick one.

Seeking To Plug Drain of Dollars

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration is drafting a package of measures wrapped around a new and urgent appeal for higher taxes in an attempt to solve one of its most perplexing problems—the continuing drain of dollars to other countries.

Details of the package, now a closely guarded secret, are expected to be spelled out in the messages President Johnson will begin sending Congress next month.

The first hints could come in his State of the Union message soon after Congress reconvenes Jan. 15.

Officials of the Treasury and Commerce departments have been meeting with White House aides to hammer together a program for next year expected to emphasize increased export sales and higher taxes to maintain economic stability.

A tax increase tends to keep exports competitive and to stifle any tendency to increase imports.

New impetus was placed behind the proposed 10 per cent tax surcharge Wednesday when the Federal Reserve Board announced a move toward tighter money, shifting from the easier money policy which marked 1967.

Because a tax increase is involved, the burden of the new balance of payments program will fall on big business and the ordinary citizen alike.

The recent gold-buying spree in Europe heightened efforts to draft an effective plan to stem the flow of dollars overseas.

The continuing dollar drain, which began in 1949, has cut the U.S. gold supply in half. Other countries are able to buy gold because Americans spend more in those countries than foreigners spend here.

It's U.S. policy to buy back these dollars for gold when foreign central banks demand it.

The strength of the dollar itself is at stake in the new program because of this.

Until now at least the government has avoided any mandatory controls over the flow of dollars abroad. There has been talk in nongovernment circles of imposing controls on overseas investments but many administration officials are committed to a voluntary program and can be expected to fight such a move.

One of the early programs to stem the dollar tide fell on the American tourist, whose dutyfree allowance on souvenirs he bought abroad was cut in 1965 from $100 at wholesale to $100 at retail, a cut of about 55%.

It is still in effect but the new effort in travel will be to bring more foreign tourists here to offset American spending abroad rather than to restrict the movement of Americans.

Government officials have repeatedly ruled out a head tax on departing Americans, partly because two-thirds of them go to Canada and Mexico.

Restrictions on trade and travel could also result in retaliation by other countries, a move the administration wants to avoid. This leaves investment as the only major area for possible control.

The Vietnam war and direct overseas investment each drain more than $2 billion annually from the country while the travel gap this year is expected to hit a record $2 billion.

Fatter U.S. exports could help offset some of this. Fowler has spoken of "selective pressures to encourage American industry to cultivate foreign markets more aggressively" but has refused thus far to spell out details.

Adults Get Sufficient Vitamin E in Their Food

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

(Last of Two Related Columns.)

Q—Would a tablet containing vitamin C cause allergic symptoms in a person who is allergic to oranges?

A—Although a highly purified Vitamin C would contain very little allergenic matter, it might contain enough to cause symptoms in a severely allergic person if the vitamin was prepared from oranges. If you have a vitamin C deficiency, your best bet is to get this vitamin in cantaloupes, strawberries, turnips or tomatoes.

Q—Is it dangerous to take Theragrain pills for a prolonged period? Do they supply anything except vitamins to the body?

A—This multivitamin preparation is given for mixed vitamin deficiency. When the deficiency has been corrected, the drug should be discontinued and reliance placed on getting a balanced diet. Theragrain (plain) is a multivitamin. Theragrain—M has minerals added.

Q—A couple we know, aged 65 and 75 respectively, are in the best of health. They attribute all their pep to Vitamin E. Should we be taking this vitamin, too?

A—Since an adequate supply of vitamin E is found in most foods, it is not necessary to give it to adults. Your friends get their pep from the calories they consume, restful sleep and a continuing interest in the life around them.

Q—I recently read that one should not take vitamin E with iron or estrogens. Why is this?

A—There are many things vitamin E won't do and, even if you don't need it or even if you are taking iron or female hormones, it won't hurt you.

Q—Could too much vitamin B affect one's intestinal elimination?

A—The water-soluble vitamins, of which B is one, are rapidly eliminated from the body, so it would be practically impossible to get too much of it. Look for some other reason for your digestive problems.

Q—Would a vitamin product with iron in it make the blood pressure go up?

A—No.

Q—I have been told that I have a slow-acting pancreas. What do you advise for it?

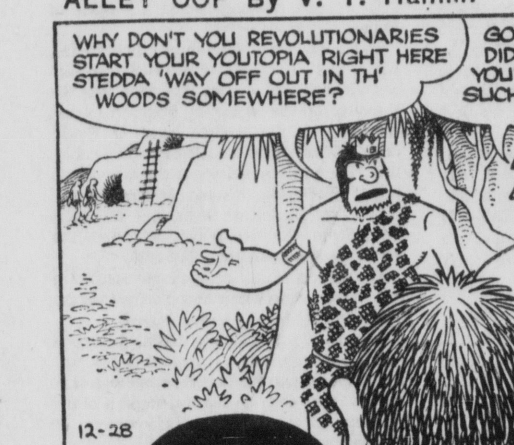

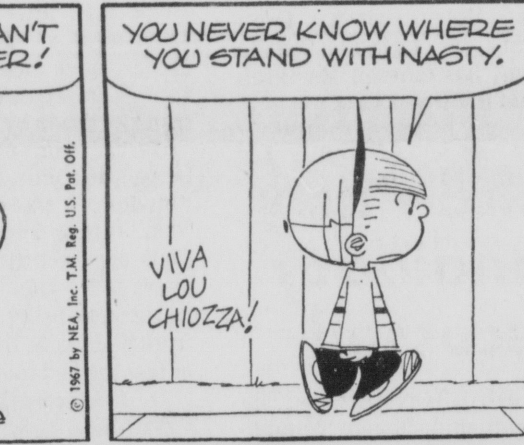

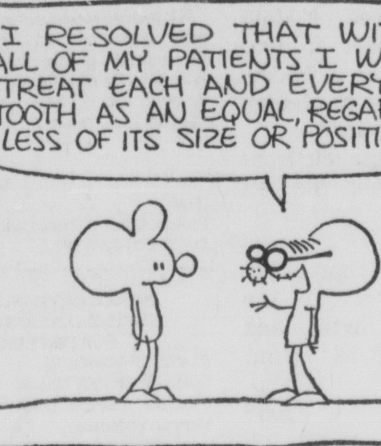

A—Your pancreas pours insulin into your blood and digestive juices into your small intestine. If your pancreas were slow to put out insulin, you would probably have said you have diabetes. If your doctor has determined what digestive enzyme you are deficient in, he can prescribe supplementary doses of it for you.

DEAR POLLY—We all know how much of a chore it is to give seldom-used china its annual washing. I have now made it a fun happening as they only had a little bit of dust on them that was easily wiped off. I did just that, and each evening for a week the family enjoyed eating off the special china until all had been used, washed, stacked and covered on a spare table. Then I washed the inside of the china closet and replaced everything.—MRS. R. D.

DEAR POLLY—I am coming to the aid of Kay, who has the problem of vacuuming up next to the baseboards. If she does not have the small brush attachment that does the job, I suggest that she remove the larger attachment and clean these areas with just the end of the hose. It works very well.—MARY

DEAR POLLY—My Christmas tree was large and thick and it was very difficult to refill the holder with water. I solved this by placing an ice cube in the holder every day. This kept the tree fresh and green and there was no spilled water on the floor.—EDNA

OBITUARIES

Dr. A. W. Barrick

Dr. A. W. Barrick, 62, 1115 West Sixth, died at his home at 6:40 p.m. Wednesday. Dr. Barrick was stricken at this home a short time after he returned from his office in the Commerce Building.

He was born at Waston, Ill., Feb. 24, 1905, son of the late Austin W. and Laura Furrer Barrick.

He received his elementary and high school education in St. Louis schools and graduated from the Missouri Chiropractic College in St. Louis. For the past five years he has been practicing in Sedalia.

Dr. Barrick was a member of Lodge No. 180, A.F. and A.M. in St. Louis, a member of the Scottish Rite in both St. Louis and Sedalia, and the Shrine Club of Sedalia. He was a past patron on the Rob Morris Chapter of O.E.S. No. 328 in St. Louis.

He was married at Waterloo, Ill., Jan. 8, 1929, to Miss Irene Mullen, who survives. Also surviving is one son, Dr. Austin W. Barrick, III, St. Louis; two sisters, Mrs. W. B. Phillips and Mrs. Ed Phillips, both of St. Louis; two brothers, W. D. Barrick, Tulsa, Okla.; G. Barrick, Mason City, Ill.; and one granddaughter, Trella Jo Barrick, St. Louis.

The body was taken to Kansas City Thursday evening for cremation.

Memorial services will be held at the Bethany United Church of Christ in St. Louis at 2 p.m. Saturday. The Rev. Harold C. Grunewald, pastor, will officiate.

Burial will be in the Easton, Ill., Cemetery.

Hijackers Escape With $301,000

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Hijackers escaped with $301,000 in an armored truck Wednesday by driving it out of a parking lot crowded with people while the two guards were in a department store.

The truck was found within 30 minutes abandoned about 1 1/2 miles away from the shopping area, in nearby Boardman, with $32,000 still inside. Police said the hijackers switched the rest of the loot to a getaway car.

Authorities said that someone evidently had a set of keys to open the truck doors that locked automatically when closed. There was no sign of forced entry into the Kane Secret Service Co. truck.

The two guards, Steve Sulik, 46, of Boardman, and James Lockhart, 45, of Youngstown, were in the Almart Department Store about "four or five minutes," according to Boardman Police Chief Don Hawkins.

"When they returned, the truck was gone."

Several witnesses outside the store said a man in uniform got into the truck and drove away. It was found abandoned in a wooded park area.

"They were certainly familiar with the operation," said Hawkins. "I would say it has every appearance of being an inside job."

The chief said the robbery, largest in the recollection of officials in the Youngstown area, was pulled by "two or three men."

Police said at least two keys were needed by the robbers—one to open the door on the driver's side and another for a side door to get the money.

The Kane Truck was carrying money on a bank transfer and also making pickups and deliveries at the Boardman Plaza Shopping Center on U.S. 224, five miles south of here.

New Book Published

Missouri Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick congratulates his Blue Book editor, Mrs. Thelma Goodwin, on the new look in the 1967-68 Missouri State Manual, just off the press. The 46th edition includes the first major changes in Blue Book style in over 33 years. The front cover carries the state's seal. The book has several color photographs illustrating "Today's Missouri." Each elected official is shown in a color photograph, seated at his desk. The new book is narrower, easier to read and thinner. It contains 1,200 illustrations. By law, the secretary of state is limited to publishing 40,000 copies of the book, "... my only regret," according to Kirkpatrick.

Mail Barely 'Creeping,' Star Says

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Some of the men handling the nation's mail say it is barely creeping along, the Kansas City Star reported today in a copyrighted story in its morning edition.

The story followed one recently published by the Star which quoted postal officials as saying that much first class mail is moving faster and more efficiently than ever.

Lewis D. Graham, an official with the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, was quoted in today's story as saying "The American people are being taken for a ride by the post office."

Lloyd Grant, chairman of the Lodge 1254 of the Railway Clerks Union, said "We used to give special delivery and special handling mail preferential treatment. Now all it does is sit there. It's like hauling something across the country with a mule team and having a guy on a thoroughbred horse run it the last 30 feet. It's a waste of money."

A post office department official in St. Louis, James McNary, assistant to the regional director, replied to the charge made by Brotherhood of Railway Clerks officials and to reports the St. Louis regional office has issued an order holding all mail for 48 hours, or until leased trailers were filled to a certain point.

McNary said the regional order did issue a directive applying to mail handling between Dec. 23 and Jan. 2, which he said normally is a slack period. McNary stressed the directive ordered a hold of up to 48 hours on nonpreferential mail, which includes circulars and third- and fourth-class mail.

McNary said: "To our knowledge no mail was held anywhere near 48 hours. From our present information the longest time was up to eight hours."

The postal official said special delivery and special handling parcel post are specifically excluded from the 48-hour hold.

Third-Party Candidacy Discussed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The two top-ranking Senate Republicans are at odds over what effect a third-party candidacy by former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace would have on the 1968 presidential race.

Meanwhile Wallace, an apparent victor in his drive to qualify for the California presidential ballot, reportedly has targeted Ohio for a similar campaign.

And former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, indirectly quoted by the New York Times as saying Michigan Gov. George Romney was too indecisive to be President, denied ever making Ohio for a similar campaign.

These were Wednesday's political developments:

—In Los Angeles, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., GOP Senate whip, predicted Democrats would lose far more votes than Republicans if Wallace qualifies as a 1968 presidential candidate.

But Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, in Los Angeles to serve as grand marshal of the Tournament of Roses, told newsmen he feels a Wallace candidacy would cut equally into both parties' ranks.

—In Columbus, Ohio, a Wallace spokesman said the former governor plans to visit the Buckeye State Jan. 5-10 to plot strategy aimed at qualifying for the presidential ballot there.

Two members of Wallace's campaign staff in Montgomery, Ala., said they knew nothing of such plans, however.

State election officials said earlier this week Wallace apparently has succeeded in getting enough Californians to register with his American Independent party to qualify for the presidential ballot in the nation's most populous state.

—Eisenhower said in his opinion Romney had taken forceful, logical positions on many vital domestic issues. He denied ever saying the Michigan governor was unfit to be president.

He was responding to a New York Times story on Christmas day which quoted an unnamed golfing partner as saying Eisenhower felt Romney "has been on so many sides of so many questions that one begins to wonder just where he does stand. He sounds like a man in a panic, and a man who panics is not the best candidate for president."

"I have not said nor do I believe that Gov. Romney is unfit to be president, that he has been carry mail after Jan. 10. This follows a Post Office Department move last October to discontinue all mail transportation by rail.

Herbst said the two trains being discontinued carried a "medium passenger traffic load" during week-days. "Week-ends are a little heavier." He averaged the number of passengers using the two trains from Sedalia at five, in - coming or leaving Sedalia.

Faster by Highways

Hammer said the railroad suffered losses in passenger revenue between the two Missouri metropolitan centers because "you can drive it faster than going by rail."

He also cited bus services and the growing number of smaller airlines serving mid - Missouri communities as factors.

No PSC Action Yet

MoPac filed application with the Public Service Commission Dec. 1, to discontinue trains 18, 19, 15 and 16. No public hearings have been held on the question. It was reported, however, that PSC action is not required for trains eliminated, even though the railroad could be forced by PSC order to renew trains it had stopped. Reinstatement would be based on the determination of need for services.

When MoPac first announced its intention to stop two other trains through Sedalia earlier in the year, no objection was voiced here either by Mayor Ralph Walker, the city council or the Chamber of Commerce.

In The News

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—A federal judge told two rock 'n' rollers Wednesday they might be better off if they got haircuts.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Gus Solomon sentenced two members of "Mom and Apple Pie," Terrence Jones, 20, and Earl Gardner, 19, to three years probation for stealing a car.

The youths said other prisoners at Portland's Rocky Butte jail, where they were held overnight, teased them about their long hair.

"Of course, it isn't because I haven't any hair of my own that I admonish you on your hair," the judge said.

In Concord, N.H., meanwhile, a spokesman for a state organization supporting President Johnson disclosed plans for a drive to get write-in votes for Johnson in the state's March 12 presidential primary.

Had Right Idea

LONDON (AP)—"When a small truck was reported 'lost or stolen,' Scotland Yard asked all London police stations to preserve the vehicle, if recovered, for fingerprints. It turned out the Yard had the right idea, a fuller description later showed the stolen vehicle belonged to the fingerprint expert at a Wimbledon police station.
